WILL HAVE THE RIGHT OF WAY.

Railroad Rate Legislation to the Fore in the House.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Railway rate legislation is to have the right of way in the house of representatives during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The rule making the bill giving the interstate-commerce commission the power to fix rates a special order of business during sessions which are to begin an hour earlier on Tuesday and Wednesday, will cause a lively debate on Monday. Opposition against the interstate commerce commission will be voiced during the debate on the rule. This opposition may come from the minority developed in the Republican conference on Friday as well as from the Democrats of the house. If the two should unite to defeat the rule, those who have counted noses say this could be accomplished. Should the rule be adopted, as is the belief of the majority leaders, it will leave no opportunity to make their showing of strength on the Davey bill, to be offered as a substitute for the Each-Townsend bill, when the time comes to vote on that measure at 4 o'clock Wednesday. The discussion will be interrupted on Wednesday to permit the two houses of congress to assemble in the hall of the house and count the electoral vote for president and vice president. This impressive ceremony will begin promptly at 1 o'clock on Wednesday. President Pro Tem Frye will occupy a seat beside Speaker Cannon and preside over the assembly. The senators will be seated in reserved spaces on the floor. Tellers appointed by both houses and both political parties have been appointed and will review and announce the vote. After the announcement of the result the railway rates debate will continue.

With this object out of the way the balance of the week will be devoted to the consideration of the naval and river and harbors appropriations bills.

HERO OF METER HILL DEAD.

Japanese General Matsumura Expires at the Front.

London, Feb. 6.—General Matsumura, according to the Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, has died at the front from congestion of the brain. He commanded the operations at 202-Meter hill and was decorated and promoted for heroism.

CRISIS NOW AT HAND

THE STRIKE SITUATION AT LODZ HAS REACHED A VERY CRITICAL STAGE.

ULTIMATUM OF EMPLOYERS

MEN MUST RETURN TO WORK AT ONCE OR ELSE LOSE THEIR POSITIONS.

Lodz, Feb. 6.—The situation here has reached a critical stage and it will be decided Monday whether the conflict shall end or the strike continue. The employers met on Saturday and decided to reopen all their factories on Monday, when men reporting for work will be re-engaged and the remainder discharged. A large number of workmen are disposed to resume, but fear that the malcontents will employ coercion.

The newly appointed governor general, Arcimovitch, is giving the closest attention to the situation. In the course of an interview the governor general said that Monday would be the critical test. If the strikers once resume, the strike will be broken. Being asked whether he considered the strike a political movement the governor general answered:

"Yes and no. It is a labor movement, but the strikers' specific demands were suggested by political agitators, who are foreigners."

He expressed himself as being confident that order will be maintained, though they are handicapped by the insufficiency of the police force, which numbers only 300. The governor general said he was averse to using soldiers, who made bad policemen. The state of siege is still maintained here and the streets are being patrolled by military. All travelers are carefully scrutinized. Thirty strike leaders, mostly foreigners, have been arrested.

The strike movement in Poland has spread to the governments of Warsaw, Petrikau, Kalisz, Radom, Lublin and Suwalki. Martial law has been declared in Kalisz, Radom and Siedlic.

DISCLAIM THE DELEGATES.

Workmen Claim Those Who Visited Czar Did Not Represent Them.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—The workmen to the number of 4,000 in the car shops here have drawn up a manifesto disclaiming the delegates who were put forward as representing them in the deputation which visited Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe Selo on Wednesday, Feb. 1. They assert that these men were selected by the employers and were not representatives of the workmen.

The employees of one or two other factories may follow suit, but the workmen in general are inclined to stand by the deputation. There were a few slight collisions between Lessner's workmen and the police guarding the factory Sunday. Poland however, still continues to be the storm center of disturbances. Though the strike has ceased in some establishments it has assumed a more important phase by its extension to the great coal mines and sugar factories and three more governments have been placed under martial law. Police and Cossacks have had to break up a number of demonstrations and quell disorders, but as yet there has been no repetition of rioting on the scale of the first collisions.

Strikes in Tiflis and other parts of the Caucasus are few and the present one does not attract much attention except as bearing on the general situation in Russia.

DEED OF A JEALOUS MAN.

James C. Kennedy Puts Seven Bullets Into Howard M. Ebner.

Pittsburg, Feb. 6.—Maddened by the alleged infidelity of his wife, James C. Kennedy, foreman at the plant of the Union Spring and Manufacturing company at New Kensington, sent seven bullets into the body of Howard M. Ebner, a young telegraph operator, Sunday. Kennedy gave himself up immediately after the shooting and was lodged in jail here. Mrs. Kennedy was also arrested and is being held as an accessory. The shooting was seemingly planned with deliberation, for Kennedy waited near Ebner's boardinghouse until Ebner returned from work, when Kennedy walked up to Ebner on the street and pressing his revolver against Ebner's breast fired two shots, both taking effect. Ebner started to run. Kennedy fired the three remaining bullets at the fleeing man, each taking effect, and Ebner fell, face downward, a few feet from the door of his boardinghouse. Kennedy advanced and coolly bending over the prostrate man, sent two more bullets into his head. Leaving his victim lying where he had fallen, Kennedy strode to the police station and surrendered.

NUMBER OF SERIOUS CLASHES.

Japs and Russians Constantly Collide Along Hun and Shakhe Rivers.

Tokio, Feb. 6.—There were a number of serious skirmishes along the Shakhe and Hun rivers Friday night and Saturday.

The Russians shelled portions of the Japanese lines Friday night and small bodies of Russians attacked Waito and Tiet mountains and places in those vicinities.

A report received from Japanese Manchurian headquarters says all the attacks were repulsed.

Friday afternoon Russian batteries stationed at Liuchientun and Wanpao mountain north of the Shakhe river, and at other places shelled the Japanese positions. Saturday morning 600 cavalry comprising one force and two companies of infantry with one battery comprising another simultaneously attacked Chitaitse on the right bank of the Hun river. The Russians appeared to have reserves. The Japanese garrison at Chitaitse was defending the place when the report of the attack was forwarded.

REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

Japs Beaten Off in Their Attack on Russian Forces.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—According to General Kuropatkin's latest reports, which indicate the wounding of a third Russian general, Dombowski, the operations at Sandilapu and the fight at Shakhe have been momentarily suspended. The Russians successfully repulsed with heavy loss the latest attack of the Japanese eastward. The cold is still intense, there being 24 degrees of frost. There are indications that the Japanese are preparing to break the inactivity on their own account as soon as the weather moderates.

The war office is closed and no further facts regarding the reports that General Kuropatkin is about to give up his command can be obtained. The rumor, however, is generally discredited.

HEAVY GUNS AT WORK.

Artillery Firing on Both Sides Reported by Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—General Kuropatkin, in a report to Emperor Nicholas, says:

"No fighting was reported on Feb. 4. At present activity is confined to operations by our volunteers, which harass the enemy. There is artillery firing on both sides and a hasty strengthening of positions by both the Russians and the Japanese."

VEILED IN MYSTERY

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MINISTER IN A LODGINGHOUSE IN LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 6.—The death of Rev. C. E. Bently of Lincoln, Neb., candidate of the Liberty party for the presidency in the campaign of 1896, in a lodginghouse at 1238 South Los Angeles street, Saturday night, puzzles the police.

Rev. Bently, according to a story told by Mrs. Dougless, proprietress of the lodginghouse, applied for a room about 8 o'clock Saturday night. He was accompanied by a stylishly dressed woman who wore a thick black veil. The landlady showed them a room, and while she was turning on the light Bently dropped to the floor unconscious. The woman who accompanied him to the house left suddenly. Mrs. Dougless then went to seek assistance, but, returning a few moments later, found a young man named Haines, a lodger, holding Bently's head. Haines left, saying he was going for a doctor, but has not been seen since. Mrs. Dougless finally summoned the police, but Bently was dead.

The body was removed to the morgue late Saturday night, and was not identified until Sunday. When search of his clothing was made it was found that his gold watch was missing and that his pockets contained only $1.05. An autopsy was held Sunday, and it was found that death was due to heart disease. The police are searching for the mysterious veiled woman who accompanied Bently, although they do not think she is in any way responsible for his death.

Rev. Bently and his wife arrived in Los Angeles Friday and took apartments at 300 Olive street. Previous to 1896 Bently was prominently identified with the Prohibition party, being successively three times candidate of that party for United States senator from Nebraska. He was sixty-one years old.

AGED BANKER IS DEAD

PRESIDENT BECKWITH OF THE FAILED OBERLIN (O.) BANK PASSES AWAY.

CHADWICK CASE AFFECTED

DEATH OF FINANCIER MAY WEAKEN CASE AGAINST CLEVELAND WOMAN.

Oberlin, O., Feb. 6.—C. T. Beckwith, president of the defunct Citizens' National bank of this city, died at 10:45 o'clock Sunday night after two days of unconsciousness, during which dissolution was expected at any moment. Only the family surrounded the death bed of the banker. Mr. Beckwith was about sixty-five years of age.

On Dec. 14 last the federal grand jury in Cleveland returned five indictments against Beckwith upon the charge of violating the national banking laws in connection with the loans made to Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick by the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, of which deceased was the president.

From the day of his arrest Beckwith's health failed rapidly as a result of worry over his trouble. He frequently declared during his illness that he wanted to die. For several days prior to his death he refused to take food in any form. Death resulted directly from heart trouble.

The death of President Beckwith may materially weaken the cases of forgery and conspiracy to misapply bank funds, now charged against Mrs. Chadwick.

WOMAN BRUTALLY MURDERED. Body Found in Back Yard of a Vacant House Near Her Home.

Allegheny, Pa., Feb. 6.—The dead body of Mrs. John A. Kirkpatrick was found Sunday in the back yard of an unoccupied house at No. 9 Jackson street, only a short distance from her home. She had been murdered and the morgue physician stated that the woman had been criminally assaulted.

For the past several months, Mrs. Kirkpatrick has been living at the residence of Mrs. Jessie Scott, on Jackson street, with her husband and eighteen-months-old babe. Saturday night she was returning home from marketing and was seen talking to a tall man wearing a high hat and long overcoat, who answered the description of a man who twice asked for her at the Scott home that night. A few moments later she was evidently dragged into Creighton alley, where she was heard to exclaim, "Oh, don't; I'll do anything you say." When the body was discovered Sunday at 1 o'clock it was found that the woman had been choked to death and traces in the snow showed that she had been dragged for twelve feet along the alley to the yard gate and thrown inside.

Late at night the police arrested Norman Geyser, a board marker in a local broker office, and are holding him on the charge of murder. Geyser had been an admirer of Mrs. Kirkpatrick for several years before her marriage and for a time was the cause of an estrangement between Kirkpatrick and his wife.

When arrested a bloodstain was found on Geyser's overcoat sleeve, and the knuckles of his right hand were cut, the abrasions being such, the physicians say, as could be made by the sharp edges of human teeth.

As it was found that several of the murdered woman's teeth had been knocked out the police believe they have captured the right man.

KILLS A YOUNG WOMAN.

New York Janitor Severely Injured in trying to Escape.

New York, Feb. 6.—A young woman, described as Louise Schroeder and Louisa Adams, was shot and instantly killed Sunday by Emil Bollinger, a janitor, who was arrested after being seriously injured in an attempt to escape. The shooting took place in the diningroom of a hotel on Third avenue, where the woman and two men had been during the night. Bollinger, who had been sitting in another part of the room watching the trio for some hours, suddenly advanced to the table at which they sat and shot the woman through the neck and through the heart. As she fell Bollinger threw away the pistol and started to run, when he was attacked by the woman's companions and thrown down stairs and severely injured. When removed to the hospital two more revolvers were found on him.

Bollinger said he had shot the woman because she had ruined his life.

The police learned that Bollinger's wife is said to have left him two years ago on account of his attentions to the woman who was killed Sunday.

TWO CHILDREN CREMATED.

Perished in Fire Which Destroyed Their Home.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 6.—Leo Ososky, aged two years, and his baby brother, James, aged two months, children of a shipyard laborer, were suffocated to death by smoke Sunday in their home at Wyandotte. The children had been left alone in their beds in the kitchen when the house caught fire from a stove and was destroyed.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DEATHS.

Bodies of Two Carpenters Found on an Alabama Mountain.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 6.—Much mystery surrounds the death of R. W. Bearden and Charles Sloop, two carpenters, whose bodies were found on Red mountain near this city, Sunday. Bearden's body was well up on the mountain and his throat was so badly cut that the head was half severed from the body. There seemed to be evidence of a struggle.

Sloop's body was found lower down on the mountain, near the entrance gate of the Birmingham Country club. There were no signs of violence on his body. The two men were warm friends, and are known to have spent Saturday afternoon in Birmingham.

AN EXTENDED PROGRAMME.

Mapped Out by the Senate for the Present Week.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The senate has laid out an extended programme for itself this week. According to this plan, Monday and Tuesday will be given over almost entirely to the statehood bill. Wednesday the senate will proceed to the hall of the house of representatives and assist in canvassing the electoral vote. On Monday the statehood bill will be displaced temporarily in order to permit the managers of the Swayne impeachment trial to present the replication of the house of representatives to Judge Swayne's answer in the proceedings against him, but it is not expected that they will consume much time. Appropriation bills will occupy the balance of the time during the week. The Republican steering committee has decided that the pure food bill shall become the unfinished business after the disposal of the statehood bill, but it is not believed that much if any time will be found this week for its consideration.

With the statehood bill out of the way, the policy will be to press the supply bills persistently and nothing but the Swayne trial will be permitted to stand in their way.

In accordance with the unanimous agreement reached the statehood bill and all amendments offered to it will be voted on before adjournment on Tuesday.

The contest over some of the amendments to the bill will be sharp and may continue the session into the night.

HEAVY FALL OF SNOW.

That at Sioux City, Ia., Breaks all Previous Records.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Reports from Indiana, Missouri, Iowa and Southern Illinois indicate a heavy snow fall throughout those sections of the country, accompanied by a temperature averaging 10 degrees above zero. Wabash, Ind., is in the grip of a fierce blizzard which has prevailed throughout the northeastern section of Indiana since noon Sunday. All traction lines are blocked and the supply of natural gas has completely failed.

The government weather bureau at Sioux City reported a total precipitation of six inches Sunday, marking the heaviest fall since the establishment of the bureau.

At St. Louis there was the heaviest fall thus far this winter, the precipitation being four inches. Traffic was greatly interfered with and snow-plows were kept in operation all day on the street car lines. The snow fall in Chicago was light.

News of an accident directly due to the storm comes from Ottumwa, Ia. In that city a party of coasters, blinded by the falling snow, collided with a buggy at night. Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Earl, who were in the buggy, were thrown out and seriously injured. Three of the coasters were badly hurt.

WOMAN BRUTALLY MURDERED.

Body Found in Back Yard of a Vacant House Near Her Home.

Allegheny, Pa., Feb. 6.—The dead body of Mrs. John A. Kirkpatrick was found Sunday in the back yard of an unoccupied house at No. 9 Jackson street, only a short distance from her home. She had been murdered and the morgue physician stated that the woman had been criminally assaulted.

For the past several months, Mrs. Kirkpatrick has been living at the residence of Mrs. Jessie Scott, on Jackson street, with her husband and eighteen-months-old babe. Saturday night she was returning home from marketing and was seen talking to a tall man wearing a high hat and long overcoat, who answered the description of a man who twice asked for her at the Scott home that night. A few moments later she was evidently dragged into Creighton alley, where she was heard to exclaim, "Oh, don't; I'll do anything you say." When the body was discovered Sunday at 1 o'clock it was found that the woman had been choked to death and traces in the snow showed that she had been dragged for twelve feet along the alley to the yard gate and thrown inside.

Late at night the police arrested Norman Geyser, a board marker in a local broker office, and are holding him on the charge of murder. Geyser had been an admirer of Mrs. Kirkpatrick for several years before her marriage and for a time was the cause of an estrangement between Kirkpatrick and his wife.

When arrested a bloodstain was found on Geyser's overcoat sleeve, and the knuckles of his right hand were cut, the abrasions being such, the physicians say, as could be made by the sharp edges of human teeth.

As it was found that several of the murdered woman's teeth had been knocked out the police believe they have captured the right man.

KILLS A YOUNG WOMAN.

New York Janitor Severely Injured in trying to Escape.

New York, Feb. 6.—A young woman, described as Louise Schroeder and Louisa Adams, was shot and instantly killed Sunday by Emil Bollinger, a janitor, who was arrested after being seriously injured in an attempt to escape. The shooting took place in the diningroom of a hotel on Third avenue, where the woman and two men had been during the night. Bollinger, who had been sitting in another part of the room watching the trio for some hours, suddenly advanced to the table at which they sat and shot the woman through the neck and through the heart. As she fell Bollinger threw away the pistol and started to run, when he was attacked by the woman's companions and thrown down stairs and severely injured. When removed to the hospital two more revolvers were found on him.

Bollinger said he had shot the woman because she had ruined his life.

The police learned that Bollinger's wife is said to have left him two years ago on account of his attentions to the woman who was killed Sunday.

TWO CHILDREN CREMATED.

Perished in Fire Which Destroyed Their Home.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 6.—Leo Ososky, aged two years, and his baby brother, James, aged two months, children of a shipyard laborer, were suffocated to death by smoke Sunday in their home at Wyandotte. The children had been left alone in their beds in the kitchen when the house caught fire from a stove and was destroyed.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS DEATHS.

Bodies of Two Carpenters Found on an Alabama Mountain.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 6.—Much mystery surrounds the death of R. W. Bearden and Charles Slimp, two carpenters, whose bodies were found on Red mountain near this city, Sunday. Bearden's body was well up on the mountain and his throat was so badly cut that the head was half severed from the body. There seemed to be evidence of a struggle.

Slimp's body was found lower down on the mountain, near the entrance gate of the Birmingham Country club. There were no signs of violence on his body. The two men were warm friends, and are known to have spent Saturday afternoon in Birmingham.

AN EXTENDED PROGRAMME.

Mapped Out by the Senate for the Present Week.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The senate has laid out an extended programme for itself this week. According to this plan, Monday and Tuesday will be given over almost entirely to the statehood bill. Wednesday the senate will proceed to the hall of the house of representatives and assist in canvassing the electoral vote. On Monday the statehood bill will be displaced temporarily in order to permit the managers of the Swayne impeachment trial to present the replication of the house of representatives to Judge Swayne's answer in the proceedings against him, but it is not expected that they will consume much time. Appropriation bills will occupy the balance of the time during the week. The Republican steering committee has decided that the pure food bill shall become the unfinished business after the disposal of the statehood bill, but it is not believed that much if any time will be found this week for its consideration.

With the statehood bill out of the way, the policy will be to press the supply bills persistently and nothing but the Swayne trial will be permitted to stand in their way.

In accordance with the unanimous agreement reached the statehood bill and all amendments offered to it will be voted on before adjournment on Tuesday.

The contest over some of the amendments to the bill will be sharp and may continue the session into the night.

HEAVY FALL OF SNOW.

That at Sioux City, Ia., Breaks all Previous Records.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Reports from Indiana, Missouri, Iowa and Southern Illinois indicate a heavy snow fall throughout those sections of the country, accompanied by a temperature averaging 10 degrees above zero. Wabash, Ind., is in the grip of a fierce blizzard which has prevailed throughout the northeastern section of Indiana since noon Sunday. All traction lines are blocked and the supply of natural gas has completely failed.

The government weather bureau at Sioux City reported a total precipitation of six inches Sunday, marking the heaviest fall since the establishment of the bureau.

At St. Louis there was the heaviest fall thus far this winter, the precipitation being four inches. Traffic was greatly interfered with and snow-plows were kept in operation all day on the street car lines. The snow fall in Chicago was light.

News of an accident directly due to the storm comes from Ottumwa, Ia. In that city a party of coasters, blinded by the falling snow, collided with a buggy at night. Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Earl, who were in the buggy, were thrown out and seriously injured. Three of the coasters were badly hurt.

WILL HAVE THE RIGHT OF WAY.

Railroad Rate Legislation to the Fore in the House.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Railway rate legislation is to have the right of way in the house of representatives during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The rule making the bill giving the interstate-commerce commission the power to fix rates a special order of business during sessions which are to begin an hour earlier on Tuesday and Wednesday, will cause a lively debate on Monday. Opposition against the interstate commerce commission will be voiced during the debate on the rule. This opposition may come from the minority developed in the Republican conference on Friday as well as from the Democrats of the house. If the two should unite to defeat the rule, those who have counted noses say this could be accomplished. Should the rule be adopted, as is the belief of the majority leaders, it will leave no opportunity to make their showing of strength on the Davey bill, to be offered as a substitute for the Esch-Townsend bill, when the time comes to vote on that measure at 4 o'clock Wednesday. The discussion will be interrupted on Wednesday to permit the two houses of congress to assemble in the hall of the house and count the electoral vote for president and vice president. This impressive ceremony will begin promptly at 1 o'clock on Wednesday. President Pro Tem Frye will occupy a seat beside Speaker Cannon and preside over the assembly. The senators will be seated in reserved spaces on the floor. Tellers appointed by both houses and both political parties have been appointed and will review and announce the vote. After the announcement of the result the railway rates debate will continue.

With this object out of the way the balance of the week will be devoted to the consideration of the naval and river and harbors appropriations bills.

HERO OF METER HILL DEAD.

Japanese General Matsumura Expires at the Front.

London, Feb. 6.—General Matsumura, according to the Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, has died at the front from congestion of the brain. He commanded the operations at 203 Meter hill and was decorated and promoted for heroism.

CRISIS NOW AT HAND

THE STRIKE SITUATION AT LODZ HAS REACHED A VERY CRITICAL STAGE.

ULTIMATUM OF EMPLOYERS

MEN MUST RETURN TO WORK AT ONCE OR ELSE LOSE THEIR POSITIONS.

Lodz, Feb. 6.—The situation here has reached a critical stage and it will be decided Monday whether the conflict shall end or the strike continue. The employers met on Saturday and decided to reopen all their factories on Monday, when men reporting for work will be re-engaged and the remainder discharged. A large number of workmen are disposed to resume, but fear that the malcontents will employ coercion.

The newly appointed governor general, Arcimovitch, is giving the closest attention to the situation. In the course of an interview the governor general said that Monday would be the critical test. If the strikers once resume, the strike will be broken. Being asked whether he considered the strike a political movement the governor general answered:

"Yes and no. It is a labor movement, but the strikers' specific demands were suggested by political agitators, who are foreigners."

He expressed himself as being confident that order will be maintained, though they are handicapped by the insufficiency of the police force, which numbers only 300. The governor general said he was averse to using soldiers, who made bad policemen.

The state of siege is still maintained here and the streets are being patrolled by military. All travelers are carefully scrutinized. Thirty strike leaders, mostly foreigners, have been arrested.

The strike movement in Poland has spread to the governments of Warsaw, Petrikau, Kalisz, Radom, Lublin and Suwalki. Martial law has been declared in Kalisz, Radom and Siedlce.

DISCLAIM THE DELEGATES.

Workmen Claim Those Who Visited Czar Did Not Represent Them.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—The workmen to the number of 4,000 in the car shops here have drawn up a manifesto to disclaim the delegates who were put forward as representing them in the deputation which visited Emperor Nicholas at Tsarskoe Selo on Wednesday, Feb. 1. They assert that these men were selected by the employers and were not representatives of the workmen.

The employees of one or two other factories may follow suit, but the workmen in general are inclined to stand by the deputation.

There were a few slight collisions between Lessner's workmen and the police guarding the factory Sunday.

Poland however, still continues to be the storm center of disturbances. Though the strike has ceased in some establishments it has assumed a more important phase by its extension to the great coal mines and sugar factories and three more governments have been placed under martial law. Police and Cossacks have had to break up a number of demonstrations and quell disorders, but as yet there has been no repetition of rioting on the scale of the first collisions.

Strikes in Tiflis and other parts of the Caucasus are few and the present one does not attract much attention except as bearing on the general situation in Russia.

DEED OF A JEALOUS MAN.

James C. Kennedy Puts Seven Bullets Into Howard M. Ebner.

Pittsburg, Feb. 6.—Maddened by the alleged infidelity of his wife, James C. Kennedy, foreman at the plant of the Union Spring and Manufacturing company at New Kensington, sent seven bullets into the body of Howard M. Ebner, a young telegraph operator, Sunday. Kennedy gave himself up immediately after the shooting and was lodged in jail here. Mrs. Kennedy was also arrested and is being held as an accessory. The shooting was seemingly planned with deliberation, for Kennedy waited near Ebner's boardinghouse until Ebner returned from work, when Kennedy walked up to Ebner on the street and pressing his revolver against Ebner's breast fired two shots, both taking effect. Ebner started to run. Kennedy fired the three remaining bullets at the fleeing man, each taking effect, and Ebner fell, face downward, a few feet from the door of his boardinghouse. Kennedy advanced and coolly bending over the prostrate man, sent two more bullets into his head. Leaving his victim lying where he had fallen, Kennedy strode to the police station and surrendered.

NUMBER OF SERIOUS CLASHES.

Japs and Russians Constantly Collide Along Hun and Shakhe Rivers.

Tokio, Feb. 6.—There were a number of serious skirmishes along the Shakhe and Hun rivers Friday night and Saturday.

The Russians shelled portions of the Japanese lines Friday night and small bodies of Russians attacked Waito and Tiet mountains and places in those vicinities.

A report received from Japanese Manchurian headquarters says all the attacks were repulsed.

Friday afternoon Russian batteries stationed at Liuchientun and Wanpao mountain north of the Shakhe river, and at other places shelled the Japanese positions. Saturday morning 600 cavalry comprising one force and two companies of infantry with one battery comprising another simultaneously attacked Chitaitse on the right bank of the Hun river. The Russians appeared to have reserves. The Japanese garrison at Chitaitse was defending the place when the report of the attack was forwarded.

REPULSED WITH HEAVY LOSS.

Japs Beaten Off in Their Attack on Russian Forces.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—According to General Kuropatkin's latest reports, which indicate the wounding of a third Russian general, Dombowski, the operations at Sandiapu and the fight at Shakhe have been momentarily suspended. The Russians successfully repulsed with heavy loss the latest attack of the Japanese eastward. The cold is still intense, there being 24 degrees of frost. There are indications that the Japanese are preparing to break the inactivity on their own account as soon as the weather moderates.

The war office is closed and no further facts regarding the reports that General Kuropatkin is about to give up his command can be obtained. The rumor, however, is generally discredited.

HEAVY GUNS AT WORK.

Artillery Firing on Both Sides Reported by Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 6.—General Kuropatkin, in a report to Emperor Nicholas, says:

"No fighting was reported on Feb. 4. At present activity is confined to operations by our volunteers, which harass the enemy. There is artillery firing on both sides and a hasty strengthening of positions by both the Russians and the Japanese."

VEILED IN MYSTERY

DEATH OF A PROMINENT MINISTER IN A LODGINGHOUSE IN LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 6.—The death of Rev. C. E. Bently of Lincoln, Neb., candidate of the Liberty party for the presidency in the campaign of 1896, in a lodginghouse at 1238 South Los Angeles street, Saturday night, puzzles the police.

Rev. Bently, according to a story told by Mrs. Dougless, proprietress of the lodginghouse, applied for a room about 8 o'clock Saturday night. He was accompanied by a stylishly dressed woman who wore a thick black veil. The landlady showed them a room, and while she was turning on the light Bently dropped to the floor unconscious. The woman who accompanied him to the house left suddenly. Mrs. Dougless then went to seek assistance, but, returning a few moments later, found a young man named Haines, a lodger, holding Bently's head. Haines left, saying he was going for a doctor, but has not been seen since. Mrs. Dougless finally summoned the police, but Bently was dead.

The body was removed to the morgue late Saturday night, and was not identified until Sunday. When search of his clothing was made it was found that his gold watch was missing and that his pockets contained only $1.05. An autopsy was held Sunday, and it was found that death was due to heart disease. The police are searching for the mysterious veiled woman who accompanied Bently, although they do not think she is in any way responsible for his death.

Rev. Bently and his wife arrived in Los Angeles Friday and took apartments at 300 Olive street.

Previous to 1896 Bently was prominently identified with the Prohibition party, being successively three times candidate of that party for United States senator from Nebraska. He was sixty-one years old.

AGED BANKER IS DEAD

PRESIDENT BECKWITH OF THE FAILED OBERLIN (O.) BANK PASSES AWAY.

CHADWICK CASE AFFECTED

DEATH OF FINANCIER MAY WEAKEN CASE AGAINST CLEVELAND WOMAN.

Oberlin, O., Feb. 6.—C. T. Beckwith, president of the defunct Citizens' National bank of this city, died at 10:45 o'clock Sunday night after two days of unconsciousness, during which dissolution was expected at any moment. Only the family surrounded the death bed of the banker. Mr. Beckwith was about sixty-five years of age.

On Dec. 14 last the federal grand jury in Cleveland returned five indictments against Beckwith upon the charge of violating the national banking laws in connection with the loans made to Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick by the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, of which deceased with the president.

From the day of his arrest Beckwith's health failed rapidly as a result of worry over his trouble. He frequently declared during his illness that he wanted to die. For several days prior to his death he refused to take food in any form. Death resulted directly from heart trouble.

The death of President Beckwith may materially weaken the cases of forgery and conspiracy to misapply bank funds, now charged against Mrs. Chadwick.

WOMAN BRUTALLY MURDERED.

Body Found in Back Yard of a Vacant House Near Her Home.

Allegheny, Pa., Feb. 6.—The dead body of Mrs. John A. Kirkpatrick was found Sunday in the back yard of an unoccupied house at No. 9 Jackson street, only a short distance from her home. She had been murdered and the morgue physician stated that the woman had been criminally assaulted.

For the past several months, Mrs. Kirkpatrick has been living at the residence of Mrs. Jessie Scott, on Jackson street, with her husband and eighteen-months-old babe. Saturday night she was returning home from marketing and was seen talking to a tall man wearing a high hat and long overcoat, who answered the description of a man who twice asked for her at the Scott home that night. A few moments later she was evidently dragged into Creighton alley, where she was heard to exclaim, "Oh, don't; I'll do anything you say." When the body was discovered Sunday at 1 o'clock it was found that the woman had been choked to death and traces in the snow showed that she had been dragged for twelve feet along the alley to the yard gate and thrown inside.

Late at night the police arrested Norman Geyser, a board marker in a local broker office, and are holding him on the charge of murder. Geyser had been an admirer of Mrs. Kirkpatrick for several years before her marriage and for a time was the cause of an estrangement between Kirkpatrick and his wife.

When arrested a bloodstain was found on Geyser's overcoat sleeve, and the knuckles of his right hand were cut, the abrasions being such, the physicians say, as could be made by the sharp edges of human teeth.

As it was found that several of the murdered woman's teeth had been knocked out the police believe they have captured the right man.

Does the Todd County Argus object to having the fact advertised that his town is investing money in manufacturing plants?

THE Verndale Sun editor has been thinking and the result has been that the wide difference between a newspaper man and the balance of mankind has been brought forcibly to his mind. For instance "if an editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries it. In the one case there is swearing, the smell of sulphur and sometime a lawsuit; in the other a funeral, cut flowers and smell of varnish. If a doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes to see another man's wife he gets a charge of buckshot."

ACCORDING to Washington dispatches President Roosevelt has decided to appoint General Thomas L. Rosser, who was the youngest brigadier general in the Confederate army, as collector of Internal revenue of the Virginia district which includes Richmond. General Rosser was one of the volunteer officers in the Spanish-American war and was assigned to duty in Cuba. He has been a republican since McKinley's second election. His appointment was not asked by the republican machine in Virginia, but is to be a personal one with the president. The president has given a number of southern men, democrats and republicans, to understand that he intends to raise the character of appointments in the south and that hereafter he will, as far as possible, pick the best men to be found for positions. If he cannot find republicans he will give places to democrats. His intentions in that direction are a constant source of worry to the patronage-hunting republicans of the south. Gen. Rosser is a brother of Dr. Rosser, formerly of Brainerd.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.

All of Them Perished by Breaking Through the Ice.

Brownston, Pa., Feb. 6.—Three children were drowned here Sunday. The finding of a hole in the ice in Wenger's dam led to the discovery of the tragedy.

The victims were children of George W. Hoeffner, Edwin, aged seventeen; Lizzie, aged eleven, and John, aged nine.

The circumstances of the accident are not known as there were no witnesses. The two younger children had been coasting along the creek and it is supposed that Edwin, who wore skates when found, had taken them on the ice and was pulling them about on a sled when the ice broke, precipitating all three into the water.

The Wickedness of Growing Old. Here are the three deadly symptoms of old age: Selfishness, stagnation, intolerance.

If we find them in ourselves we may know we are growing old, even if we are on the merry side of thirty. But, happily, we have three defenses, which are invulnerable. If we use them we shall die young if we live to be a hundred. They are: Sympathy, progress, tolerance.

The first is the hardest to most of us, because our own little prison of the actual is so immensely important to us. There is no denying the fact that when you have a toothache yourself it is hard to have to consider other people's aches. But it can be done, though it generally involves physical effort, for we must bestir ourselves and act. The mere feeling of sympathy expressed by action is a poor, useless thing, but the soul, determined not to grow old, can force the body to such physical effort, though there is no denying that it is hard work.—Harper's Bazar.

BREAKING IN BUFFALOES

Oklahoma Ranchman's Attempt to Train Team of Bulls.

ONE KILLED ITSELF IN A RAGE.

Experience of Joe Miller in Trying to Persuade Two of the Animals to Draw a Wagon—Scheme to Entertain National Editorial Association Delegates on Their Visit to a Ranch Near Bliss, Okla.

In casting about for novelties to entertain the delegates to the National Editorial association who will spend a day on ranch "101," near Bliss, Okla., next summer, Joe Miller, president of the ranch company, found one which he believes would be a lively attraction, says a Bliss (Okla.) correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The preliminary steps of his discovery have cost him $500, and the cost may be greater before he has finished.

Ranch "101" has a small herd of buffaloes, purchased at the Goodnight ranch in the Texas Panhandle. Miller decided to break two young buffalo bulls for driving purposes, believing that a ride behind two buffalo roadsters would delight the visiting editors. Miller began his buffalo "busting" one Sunday not long ago, and nearly every cowboy on the ranch joined in the sport. Two expert "ropers" saddled their ponies and started in pursuit of two young bulls that were grazing in a nearby pasture. Both bulls were wild and galloped away at full speed. The day was cold, but the high speed of the cow ponies told on the buffaloes.

One of the bulls was roped around its neck. Being stronger than a steer, it dragged the pony with it, though the pony furrowed the sand with its feet. Then, with eyes flaming like two coals and its tail erect, it gave a belch and charged the pony, which cleverly dodged the onslaught. Another cowboy threw a lariat over the buffalo's horns, and the horsemen were safe, as they could hold the buffalo between them.

The prediction was made that the buffalo could not be tamed to drive. "Buffalo" Jones, now a gamekeeper in Yellowstone park, in the early nineties owned a large herd near Garden City, Kan., and killed a number in attempts to tame them. Jones declared that when too greatly enraged a buffalo seemed able to die of its own volition. It would stiffen its limbs and in a moment or two fall dead. Miller would not listen to warning and said that he would have a driving team if he used up every buffalo on his ranch.

Another buffalo was roped, and the two were fastened by their heads securely to a stout corral. Bridles were slipped over their heads and harness thrown from a safe distance on to their backs. The tongue of a heavy freight wagon was shoved between them and fixed into the neck yoke. The traces were fastened to the singletrees with a long hooked iron rod. A lariat was fastened around the horns of each buffalo and held by mounted cowboys to prevent a general smashup in a stampede.

Once securely harnessed, the buffaloes were turned loose. They broke, mad and bellowing, for the open prairie, the wagon filled with reckless cowboys, who fired their pistols to increase the speed of the lumbering team. The buffaloes tried repeatedly to turn upon each other and fight, but were held apart by the mounted cowboys. As the buffaloes grew wearied their speed decreased, but their rage grew more furious. Finally they balked, and trouble began in earnest. The larger bull dropped to its knees, with its forehead in the dust. Prodding did not move it. Then it rolled over on its side and glared with red eyes at its tormentors. The other bull turned sideways and tried to break loose from its harness.

Remembering the experience of "Buffalo" Jones, the prostrate buffalo was unhitched, "tailed" to its feet and led toward the corral. When near the corral the buffalo lowered its head and charged with its full strength against a heavy corral post. The shock was terrific, and blood burst from the animal's nostrils. Three times the buffalo charged like a battering ram before the cowboys could tighten their ropes.

The animal was worth easily $500, and Miller decided to confine it in a box stall in the ranch stable till its anger had cooled. When the buffalo was drawn with ropes into the stall it fastened both horns under the feed box, stiffened its legs in a desperate attempt to tear loose the timbers and remained in this attitude for possibly ten seconds. Then it relaxed as if struck in a vital spot, fell to the ground and was dead with scarcely a struggle.

"I'll have a buffalo team if I have to buy every buffalo in the country," said Miller. "I'll bet they can be trained to drive just the same as a steer or a horse. The trouble is we are not on to the curves of buffalo 'busting,' but we'll learn."

Next day the other bull was roped again and hitched to a buggy. The Ponca Indians had heard of what was going on and came in numbers to see the fun. By careful handling to avoid angering the buffalo too greatly it was driven short distances. This buffalo survived the drive, but left Miller uncertain as to whether or not without spending a small fortune he will be able to drive a buffalo team along the highways of Oklahoma by next summer. In a letter to Miller Charles Goodnight said that he believed it possible to tame a buffalo to drive if one with the right temperament can be found, but the losses in experiment would be too great to make the undertaking profitable.

Does the Todd County Argus object to having the fact advertised that his town is investing money in manufacturing plants?

THE Verndale Sun editor has been thinking and the result has been that the wide difference between a newspaper man and the balance of mankind has been brought forcibly to his mind. For instance "if an editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries it. In the one case there is swearing, the smell of sulphur and sometime a lawsuit; in the other a funeral, cut flowers and smell of varnish. If a doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes to see another man's wife he gets a charge of buckshot."

ACCORDING to Washington dispatches President Roosevelt has decided to appoint General Thomas L. Rosser, who was the youngest brigadier general in the Confederate army, as collector of Internal revenue of the Virginia district which includes Richmond. General Rosser was one of the volunteer officers in the Spanish-American war and was assigned to duty in Cuba. He has been a republican since McKinley's second election. His appointment was not asked by the republican machine in Virginia, but is to be a personal one with the president. The president has given a number of southern men, democrats and republicans, to understand that he intends to raise the character of appointments in the south and that hereafter he will, as far as possible, pick the best men to be found for positions. If he cannot find republicans he will give places to democrats. His intentions in that direction are a constant source of worry to the patronage-hunting republicans of the south. Gen. Rosser is a brother of Dr. Rosser, formerly of Brainerd.

BREAKING IN BUFFALOES

Oklahoma Ranchman's Attempt to Train Team of Bulls.

ONE KILLED ITSELF IN A RAGE.

Experience of Joe Miller in Trying to Persuade Two of the Animals to Draw a Wagon—Scheme to Entertain National Editorial Association Delegates on Their Visit to a Ranch Near Bliss, Okla.

In casting about for novelties to entertain the delegates to the National Editorial association who will spend a day on ranch "101," near Bliss, Okla., next summer, Joe Miller, president of the ranch company, found one which he believes would be a lively attraction, says a Bliss (Okla.) correspondent of the Kansas City Star. Does the Todd County Argus object to having the fact advertised that his town is investing money in manufacturing plants?

THE Verndale Sun editor has been thinking and the result has been that the wide difference between a newspaper man and the balance of mankind has been brought forcibly to his mind. For instance "if an editor makes a mistake he has to apologize for it, but if the doctor makes a mistake he buries it. In the one case there is swearing, the smell of sulphur and sometime a lawsuit; in the other a funeral, cut flowers and smell of varnish. If a doctor goes to see another man's wife he charges for the visit, but if the editor goes to see another man's wife he gets a charge of buckshot."

ACCORDING to Washington dispatches President Roosevelt has decided to appoint General Thomas L. Rosser, who was the youngest brigadier general in the Confederate army, as collector of Internal revenue of the Virginia district which includes Richmond. General Rosser was one of the volunteer officers in the Spanish-American war and was assigned to duty in Cuba. He has been a republican since McKinley's second election. His appointment was not asked by the republican machine in Virginia, but is to be a personal one with the president. The president has given a number of southern men, democrats and republicans, to understand that he intends to raise the character of appointments in the south and that hereafter he will, as far as possible, pick the best men to be found for positions. If he cannot find republicans he will give places to democrats. His intentions in that direction are a constant source of worry to the patronage-hunting republicans of the south. Gen. Rosser is a brother of Dr. Rosser, formerly of Brainerd.

BACK GIVES OUT

Plenty of Brainerd Readers Have this Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them. They can't keep up the continual strain.

The back gives out—it aches and pains.

Urinary troubles set in.

Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Brainerd people tell you how they act.

Oscar Opgard, employed in the N. P. shops and living at 611 Tenth St. S., Brainerd, Minn., says: "I speak from experience when I say that Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective in removing backache and toning up and regulating the kidneys. Being in need of such a remedy I went to H. P. Dunn & Co.'s drug store and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills. From the prompt results received through their use I am thoroughly convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills are all that they are claimed to be."

Knew the Crowd.

A street preacher in a west of Scotland town called a policeman who was passing and complained about being annoyed by a certain section of the audience and asked him to remove the objectionable ones.

"Weel, ye see," replied the cautious officer, "it would be a hard job for me tae spot them, but I'll tell ye what I'd dae if I were you."

"What would you do?" eagerly inquired the preacher.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.

All of Them Perished by Breaking Through the Ice.

Brownston, Pa., Feb. 6.—Three children were drowned here Sunday. The finding of a hole in the ice in Wenger's dam led to the discovery of the tragedy.

The victims were children of George W. Hoeffner, Edwin, aged seventeen; Lizzie, aged eleven, and John, aged nine.

The circumstances of the accident are not known as there were no witnesses. The two younger children had been coasting along the creek and it is supposed that Edwin, who wore skates when found, had taken them on the ice and was pulling them about on a sled when the ice broke, precipitating all three into the water.

The Wickedness of Growing Old. Here are the three deadly symptoms of old age: Selfishness, stagnation, intolerance.

If we find them in ourselves we may know we are growing old, even if we are on the merry side of thirty. But, happily, we have three defenses, which are invulnerable. If we use them we shall die young if we live to be a hundred. They are: Sympathy, progress, tolerance.

The first is the hardest to most of us, because our own little prison of the actual is so immensely important to us. There is no denying the fact that when you have a toothache yourself it is hard to have to consider other people's aches. But it can be done, though it generally involves physical effort, for we must bestir ourselves and act. The mere feeling of sympathy expressed by action is a poor, useless thing, but the soul, determined not to grow old, can force the body to such physical effort, though there is no denying that it is hard work.—Harper's Bazar.

BREAKING IN BUFFALOES

Oklahoma Ranchman's Attempt to Train Team of Bulls.

ONE KILLED ITSELF IN A RAGE.

Experience of Joe Miller in Trying to Persuade Two of the Animals to Draw a Wagon—Scheme to Entertain National Editorial Association Delegates on Their Visit to a Ranch Near Bliss, Okla.

In casting about for novelties to entertain the delegates to the National Editorial association who will spend a day on ranch "101," near Bliss, Okla., next summer, Joe Miller, president of the ranch company, found one which he believes would be a lively attraction, says a Bliss (Okla.) correspondent of the Kansas City Star. The preliminary steps of his discovery have cost him $500, and the cost may be greater before he has finished.

Ranch "101" has a small herd of buffaloes, purchased at the Goodnight ranch in the Texas Panhandle. Miller decided to break two young buffalo bulls for driving purposes, believing that a ride behind two buffalo roadsters would delight the visiting editors. Miller began his buffalo "busting" one Sunday not long ago, and nearly every cowboy on the ranch joined in the sport. Two expert "ropers" saddled their ponies and started in pursuit of two young bulls that were grazing in a nearby pasture. Both bulls were wild and galloped away at full speed. The day was cold, but the high speed of the cow ponies told on the buffaloes.

One of the bulls was roped around its neck. Being stronger than a steer, it dragged the pony with it, though the pony furrowed the sand with its feet. Then, with eyes flaming like two coals and its tail erect, it gave a bellow and charged the pony, which cleverly dodged the onslaught. Another cowboy threw a lariat over the buffalo's horns, and the horsemen were safe, as they could hold the buffalo between them.

The prediction was made that the buffalo could not be tamed to drive. "Buffalo" Jones, now a gamekeeper in Yellowstone park, in the early nineties owned a large herd near Garden City, Kan., and killed a number in attempts to tame them. Jones declared that when too greatly enraged a buffalo seemed able to die of its own volition. It would stiffen its limbs and in a moment or two fall dead. Miller would not listen to warning and said that he would have a driving team if he used up every buffalo on his ranch.

Another buffalo was roped, and the two were fastened by their heads securely to a stout corral. Bridles were slipped over their heads and harness thrown from a safe distance on to their backs. The tongue of a heavy freight wagon was shoved between them and fixed into the neck yoke. The traces were fastened to the singletrees with a long hooked iron rod. A lariat was fastened around the horns of each buffalo and held by mounted cowboys to prevent a general smashup in a stampede.

Once securely harnessed, the buffaloes were turned loose. They broke, mad and bellowing, for the open prairie, the wagon filled with reckless cowboys, who fired their pistols to increase the speed of the lumbering team. The buffaloes tried repeatedly to turn upon each other and fight, but were held apart by the mounted cowboys. As the buffaloes grew wearied their speed decreased, but their rage grew more furious. Finally they balked, and trouble began in earnest. The larger bull dropped to its knees, with its forehead in the dust. Prodding did not move it. Then it rolled over on its side and glared with red eyes at its tormentors. The other bull turned sideways and tried to break loose from its harness.

Remembering the experience of "Buffalo" Jones, the prostrate buffalo was unhitched, "tailed" to its feet and led toward the corral. When near the corral the buffalo lowered its head and charged with its full strength against a heavy corral post. The shock was terrific, and blood burst from the animal's nostrils. Three times the buffalo charged like a battering ram before the cowboys could tighten their ropes.

The animal was worth easily $500, and Miller decided to confine it in a box stall in the ranch stable till its anger had cooled. When the buffalo was drawn with ropes into the stall it fastened both horns under the feed box, stiffened its legs in a desperate attempt to tear loose the timbers and remained in this attitude for possibly ten seconds. Then it relaxed as if struck in a vital spot, fell to the ground and was dead with scarcely a struggle.

"I'll have a buffalo team if I have to buy every buffalo in the country," said Miller. "I'll bet they can be trained to drive just the same as a steer or a horse. The trouble is we are not on to the curves of buffalo 'busting,' but we'll learn."

Next day the other bull was roped again and hitched to a buggy. The Ponca Indians had heard of what was going on and came in numbers to see the fun. By careful handling to avoid angering the buffalo too greatly it was driven short distances. This buffalo survived the drive, but left Miller uncertain as to whether or not without spending a small fortune he will be able to drive a buffalo team along the highways of Oklahoma by next summer. In a letter to Miller Charles Goodnight said that he believed it possible to tame a buffalo to drive if one with the right temperament can be found, but the losses in experiment would be too great to make the undertaking profitable.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE SITUATION

Lay-Off Friday Night at Northern Pacific Shop Not so Disastrous After All, in

VIEW OF OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES

Men Now Employed in the Shops, About 700, Are Working Nine Hours a Day.

Many people in Brainerd, among them business men, have become very pessimistic regarding the N. P. shops in this city, and whenever there is a lay-off of men they usually jump at the conclusion that everything is going to wreck and ruin, and little by little other rumors are circulated until there is generally a feeling of unrestfulness. It is true that during the past month or two times have been slack in Brainerd, but the last lay-off on Friday night, when 100 men were let out, will, it is thought, be a good thing, not only for the men themselves, but for the city.

Naturally it is a bad thing to be out of a job and the 100 unfortunates who were let out have the sympathy of the community. Many of these were old men who had worked at the shops for years, some of them as long as fifteen years, but from the view point of the company in the end the results will be a good thing. These men were working short hours and were making barely enough to subsist on. Now they can go where work will be more plentiful.

The direct good that has resulted from the lay-off is the fact that the men who are now working in all departments have been put on a nine hour a day schedule instead of eight hours as heretofore and they will work 6 days a week instead of five.

Before the lay-off it is estimated that there were about 800 men on the pay roll. These 800 men were working on an eight hour schedule five days a week. This made 40 hours to a man in the week, or a total of 32,000 hours a week for the whole force. Figuring that 100 men were laid off it still leaves 700 men at work. These men are working nine hours a day six days a week, or 54 hours to a man in the week, a total of 37,800 hours a week for the entire force as against 32,000 hours under the old regime. This is a net gain in hours of 5,800 a week, which makes a material difference. This will also mean that all the men now working will have larger checks and will be able to meet their obligations much easier.

While it is regretted that many of the old men are laid off, it can be readily seen that it will result in a direct benefit to those who are at work, if the company keeps up the schedule now in force, and there is every reason to believe that it will.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease that Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Irritable and Despondent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

Overwork the stomach, or subject it to the depressing influence of worry, care or constant excitement, and it gives out. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and, like an overdriven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach, and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lies heavy, ferments and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.

Mrs. James H. Titus, of 710, Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says:

"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just splendid. My stomach bothered me for twelve years—food digesting slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way to-day—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have and will continue to recommend them strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly acted like magic with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

EDITOR DISPATCH:—

I have just read communications to your paper signed A. K. G. and by Mr. Heron and others. I am not looking for trouble and if my financial interests had not been affected should not have "butted in" as one of the communications terms it.

Answering A. K. G.'s letter first. The writer has evidently given thought to the principles of unionism and the tone of his article is fair.

1. I am aware that there is little fault to be found with the shop unions at present, but there was a year or two ago.

2. I admit that my opinion was formed upon hearsay evidence, but I could give the name of a most prominent Brainerd man, whom you all know and respect, who has only the interest of the people at heart, who criticised bitterly two years ago the action of the shop want in reason from the railroad company, but they should not ask for little annoying things, which do not benefit the city. They should ask for the important things, and the most important is that the shops run full force all the time, and pay the best wages for good work. If you get that, never mind the little things.

In conclusion, I am glad that my efforts have been taken good naturedly (witness the poetry), and I hope you will realize that I am not trying to injure anybody or organization. I am only trying to help Brainerd, and whatever helps the shopmen helps Brainerd, and whatever helps Brainerd, helps me, even if there were not many men in the shops who have been good friends to me for years.

Theoretically, there is no reason why men banded together in unions should not help themselves, and their town to a greater degree than they could individually. Put your theories in practice. "One for all, all for one" is not enough; it should be followed by "all for the best".

SOMEONE WORKING BRAINERD BOOM

In the Northern Base Ball League Proposition But He Has Not Shown up Here

C. D. SKILLINGS ON QUESTION

He Gives it Out as a Certainty that Brainerd Will be One of the New Towns

There is still all kinds of talk in the newspapers about Brainerd and its connection with the Northern Base Ball league this year and C. D. Skillings, the sporting writer of Duluth, had a long communication in yesterday's Minneapolis Tribune touching on the matter. So far as known there has been no one here to interest the business men or fans in league base ball, but evidently someone has been getting busy and may be here shortly.

Of course Brainerd fans would be glad to have a league team but it is doubtful if enough encouragement would be given anyone, in view of past experiences, to warrant them coming in, if it is financial support from the city that they are seeking.

Mr. Skillings among other things in his communication says: "The Northern Baseball league will be a winner from a financial standpoint the coming season if the theories of the officers are realized, and at the same time the fans will have less to complain of than during the season of 1904. It has been definitely decided to have eight clubs in the league this year, Superior and Crookston having been dropped, and there are now but four in the league—Duluth, Grand Forks, Winnipeg and Fargo. This will make it necessary to receive four entirely new clubs, and seven or eight towns are clamoring to be let in. It is certain that Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two of the new ones to be represented, and then there are Breckenridge, Bismarck, Wahpeton, Fergus Falls and others from which to select the other two.

"The season will open May 30 and close Sept. 1.

"A meeting of the Northern Baseball league officials will be held at Fargo Feb. 18, to consider the applications of cities to enter teams for the season of 1905. The committee appointed at the meeting Jan. 28 to make certain changes in the rules and by-laws to sustain the Class D arrangement, will then be ready to report.

"Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two good towns to have in the league. Games of only local interest attracted as many as 2,400 people Sundays last season in Brainerd, and St. Cloud is as good a town as they make for legitimate sport of any kind. Less is known here of the advantages that the other towns under consideration have from the standpoint of baseball, but they all seem to be eager and promise satisfactory patronage.

TEMPORARY LOCATION

L. W. Sherlund Has Secured Office Room in the Albert Angel Store on Laurel Street

L. Sherlund, the Laurel street plumber who burned out a few days ago has secured temporary quarters in the Albert Angel grocery store on Laurel street where he can be found by his many patrons. Mr. Sherlund states that he is ready to take care of all business now and wants all of his patrons to call. He wishes to thank the people of Brainerd for their past patronage and respectfully solicits future orders.

And I did not see the shopmen should ask, I said the shopmen and business men should ask. The railroad gets all its money from the men who pay the freight, and they are entitled to consideration.

There is not the least doubt in my mind that if the citizens of Brainerd had asked that a few cars be built in Brainerd this winter, the cars would have been built. The N. P. Ry. Co. has always had a good hearted lot of officials, many of them residents of Brainerd at one time or another, and they would be willing enough to help the city as long as they were helping the railroad.

I think I may say that about two years ago, by simply calling a certain high official's attention to the fact that a proposed reduction in the Brainerd pay roll would be an injury to the city and the railroad the reduction was not made.

The signers of that letter did not know that I had written another letter to the business men about to form a commercial club, telling them of their delinquencies, just as I had told the shopmen theirs. I had also done what I could personally to get them work before writing letters to the newspapers, and think my efforts were not fruitless. The shopmen and business men working together, can get anything they

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

DANIEL SULLY.

An attraction of interest to theatre-goers is the western comedy drama, "Our Pastor," in which Mr. Daniel Sully and his company will appear at the Brainerd opera house, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 8.

This is a story of Idaho, the scene being laid in a rough-and-ready cattle town where a census of good citizens and tough characters would show the latter in a large majority. Jim Carter, a wealthy ranchman who is the recognized boss of the town, is in love with his ward, Margaret Manning, a pretty girl many years his junior. The young lady is secretly engaged to a youthful mining engineer, Arnold Leslie, and when Carter learns this he proceeds to make the course of true love as rocky as possible. Father Daly, pastor of the struggling little Boom City church, intervenes and eventually succeeds in straightening out matters to the satisfaction of most of the parties concerned.

The role of Father Daly in "Our Pastor" gives Mr. Sully great opportunities for the display of that rich Celtic humor which is characteristic of his comedy methods. The seat sale will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at H. P. Dunn & Co's.

LONDON BIOSCOPE COMPANY.

A duel which was to have taken place at the Grande Route, Paris, has had a rather curious ending. The two antagonists, with their seconds, appeared and began to strip for the fray when a stranger bearing an oblong box, which he proceeded to unpack, came upon the scene. He then enacted a tripod on which he fixed a bioscope camera and awaited the development of events. The duelists, however, were so indignant that they forgot the cause of their trouble, embraced each other, recollected themselves and left the field of battle arm in arm, while the disappointed bioscope man sadly repacked his apparatus and departed." Had the "stranger" referred to had been fortunate enough to secure a picture the duel would have been reproduced at the Brainerd opera house for the "stranger" was Mr. F. G. Bradford the representative of the London Bioscope Co., which opens a two nights' engagement at the opera house on Thursday, Feb. 9th and 10th.

Not Afraid of the Moose.

The following from the St. Croix, N. B., Courier has reference to the father of John Cochran, the Front street barber:

Charles Cochran, of Danforth, is the guest of his son, Charles, Jr., and is visiting friends in the St. Croix valley. Mr. Cochran is hale and hearty, having attained 80 years and six months, and is hauling logs this winter. He worked for H. F. Eaton about thirty years logging and working on logs on the river, and subsequently worked for Eaton Bros. about eleven years. He explored two townships for Messrs. Gates and Eaton and two for H. F. Eaton and could not be lost in the woods nor rolled off a log into the river. He is warmly received by his many friends. He was cruising recently in the woods and met a bull moose on the back road; when Mr. Cochran came near him he rose and his mane bristled up. Mr. Cochran stood with axe in hand ready for the combat. They gazed at each other for a few moments and the moose decided to abandon further contest and disappeared rapidly from view in the forest. Mr. Cochran said he felt considerably relieved as the animal was a large one and he felt he might be overcome in the struggle.

IS GOING TO PANAMA

N. E. Entriken has Taken the Examination as First Class Machinist and Expects Commission in Few Days

N. E. Entriken, son of W. E. Entriken, has taken the government examination for a position as a first class machinist for work at Panama and has been notified that he was successful. He expects his commission in a few days and expects to leave for Panama. "Nobby," as he is known among the boys, will be missed for he has friends by the score, but all will extend the glad hand on his success and will wish him a full measure of prosperity.

Miss Rouse's Address.

Miss Rouse, Missionary of eleven years standing in Ku-Cheng, Central China, addressed a crowded house in the M. E. church last night. Her address gave a brief outline of the general work of the Christian churches in China and especially that of the M. E. church which for fifty-five years has been carrying forward evangelism in the Empire of that ancient people. Miss Rouse's special work a Ku-Cheng includes an orphanage, a day school, a private school for girls, Bible readers and Evangelists. It is situated in the Midway between Shang-Hi and Canton. The address was very instructive and inspiring. When the speaker told of her experience during the Boxer massacre, hearts were moved and many eyes filled with tears. The immediate result of her work is the adding of the local auxiliary of the W. F. M. S. twenty-seven members. Miss Rouse is on a furlough on account of ill health, and while it is not yet certain as to whether she will ever be able to return to take up her work, she hopes to be able to return this fall. It is safe to say that the audience was thoroughly converted to the foresight and wisdom of this great work in foreign lands by the home churches. Miss Rouse will always be assured of a warm welcome and a large audience, if she ever, as we hope she may, visit us again. A liberal collection was given in aid of the society.

While she intended to remain a day or two the guest of Pastor Knowles, the special program of the Duluth branch and other matters made it imperative that she leave on the noon train for that point.

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquezone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquezone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquezone does kill germs. And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquezone its worth to humanity; a worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquezone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter. Liquezone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquezone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquezone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE SITUATION

Lay-Off Friday Night at Northern Pacific Shop Not so Disastrous After All, in

VIEW OF OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES

Men Now Employed in the Shops, About 700, Are Working Nine Hours a Day.

Many people in Brainerd, among them business men, have become very pessimistic regarding the N. P. shops in this city, and whenever there is a lay-off of men they usually jump at the conclusion that everything is going to wreck and ruin, and little by little other rumors are circulated until there is generally a feeling of unrestfulness. It is true that during the past month or two times have been slack in Brainerd, but the last lay-off on Friday night, when 100 men were let out, will, it is thought, be a good thing, not only for the men themselves, but for the city.

Naturally it is a bad thing to be out of a job and the 100 unfortunates who were let out have the sympathy of the community. Many of these were old men who had worked at the shops for years, some of them as long as fifteen years, but from the view point of the company in the end the results will be a good thing. These men were working short hours and were making barely enough to subsist on. Now they can go where work will be more plentiful.

The direct good that has resulted from the lay-off is the fact that the men who are now working in all departments have been put on a nine hour a day schedule instead of eight hours as heretofore and they will work 6 days a week instead of five.

Before the lay-off it is estimated that there were about 800 men on the pay roll. These 800 men were working on an eight hour schedule five days a week. This made 40 hours to a man in the week, or a total of 32,000 hours a week for the whole force. Figuring that 100 men were laid off it still leaves 700 men at work. These men are working nine hours a day six days a week, or 54 hours to a man in the week, a total of 37,800 hours a week for the entire force as against 32,000 hours under the old regime. This is a net gain in hours of 5,800 a week, which makes a material difference. This will also mean that all the men now working will have larger checks and will be able to meet their obligations much easier.

While it is regretted that many of the old men are laid off, it can be readily seen that it will result in a direct benefit to those who are at work, if the company keeps up the schedule now in force, and there is every reason to believe that it will.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease that Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Irritable and Despondent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

Overwork the stomach, or subject it to the depressing influence of worry, care or constant excitement, and it gives out. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and, like an overdriven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach, and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lies heavy, ferments and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.

Mrs. James H. Titus, of 710, Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says:

"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just splendid. My stomach bothered me for twelve years—food digesting slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way to-day—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have and will continue to recommend them strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly acted like magic with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

Mr. Lum Replies.

EDITOR DISPATCH:—

I have just read communications to your paper signed A. K. G. and by Mr. Heron and others. I am not looking for trouble and if my financial interests had not been affected should not have "butted in" as one of the communications terms it.

Answering A. K. G.'s letter first. The writer has evidently given thought to the principles of unionism and the tone of his article is fair.

1. I am aware that there is little fault to be found with the shop unions at present, but there was a year or two ago.

2. I admit that my opinion was formed upon hearsay evidence, but I could give the name of a most prominent Brainerd man, whom you all know and respect, who has only the interest of the people at heart, who criticised bitterly two years ago the action of the shop want in reason from the railroad company, but they should not ask for little annoying things, which do not benefit the city. They should ask for the important things, and the most important is that the shops run full force all the time, and pay the best wages for good work. If you get that, never mind the little things.

In conclusion, I am glad that my efforts have been taken good naturedly (witness the poetry), and I hope you all realize that I am not trying to injure anybody or organization. I am only trying to help Brainerd, and whatever helps the shopmen helps Brainerd, and whatever helps Brainerd, helps me, even if there were not many men in the shops who have been good friends to me for years.

Theoretically, there is no reason why men banded together in unions should not help themselves, and their town to a greater degree than they could individually. Put your theories in practice. "One for all, all for one" is not enough; it should be followed by "all for the best".

Good Thing to Know.

The Scientific American says there are a good many rooms where the radiator is either too small or the steam pressure is too low to maintain a comfortable temperature in severe weather. If the tenant is enjoying the many advantages afforded by central station electric lighting service, the matter can easily be remedied. Take the fan that kept you cool all summer and set it where it can blow against a large part of the radiator's surface. Turn it on at unions regarding apprentices, and most workmen in the city know of the experiment made in the shops to demonstrate the amount of work done by the skilled machinists. I never heard a complaint about the quality of the work done in the Brainerd shops. They are supposed to be model in that respect.

3. Times are not hard in other places. The Trades and Labor assembly of Duluth has recent reports from all its branches and they report conditions in all but the house-building trades as exceptionally good. If times were dull in other places, it would not explain why the N. P. Ry. Co., with forty thousand cars to build, did not build a few dozen of them in Brainerd, which would have kept its men busy all winter and brought money into its own town, which brings me to Mr. Heron's letter, and I only ask the signers to explain the above.

4. No employer of average common sense or decency would feel insulted if his employees asked him for more work. He would think to himself, these are good workmen, they want work, such men are apt to do their work well, they ought to be encouraged and I will give them all the work I can; especially when it is for his benefit to do so. This is exactly where the unions should shine. They should endeavor at all times to get their members more work at the best wages for the best work.

And I did not say the shopmen should ask, I said the shopmen and business men should ask. The railroad gets all its money from the men who pay the freight, and they are entitled to consideration.

There is not the least doubt in my mind that if the citizens of Brainerd had asked that a few cars be built in Brainerd this winter, the cars would have been built. The N. P. Ry. Co. has always had a good hearted lot of officials, many of them residents of Brainerd at one time or another, and they would be willing enough to help the city as long as they were helping the railroad.

I think I may say that about two years ago, by simply calling a certain high official's attention to the fact that a proposed reduction in the Brainerd pay roll would be an injury to the city and the railroad the reduction was not made.

The signers of that letter did not know that I had written another letter to the business men about to form a commercial club, telling them of their delinquencies, just as I had told the shopmen theirs. I had also done what I could personally to get them work before writing letters to the newspapers, and think my efforts were not fruitless. The shopmen and business men working together, can get anything they low speed, or at high if necessary, and your cold room will soon be thoroughly warmed. The philosophy of the thing is that steam at a low pressure carries much less latent heat than steam at a high pressure, and therefore warms the radiator so poorly that only a slight draft of air rises around the pipes, and condensation is slow. With the fan in operation there is a forced draft against the radiator that conducts a great deal more heat away from iron, cooling it so that much more condensation of steam occurs inside it. The heat thus snatched from the reluctant radiator is held in the circulating atmosphere of the room, which is soon changed from cold to warm at a trifling cost for electric energy.

SOMEONE WORKING BRAINERD BOOM

In the Northern Base Ball League Proposition But He Has Not Shown up Here

C. D. SKILLINGS ON QUESTION

He Gives it Out as a Certainty that Brainerd Will be One of the New Towns

There is still all kinds of talk in the newspapers about Brainerd and its connection with the Northern Base Ball league this year and C. D. Skillings, the sporting writer of Duluth, had a long communication in yesterday's Minneapolis Tribune touching on the matter. So far as known there has been no one here to interest the business men or fans in league base ball, but evidently someone has been getting busy and may be here shortly.

Of course Brainerd fans would be glad to have a league team but it is doubtful if enough encouragement would be given anyone, in view of past experiences, to warrant them coming in, if it is financial support from the city that they are seeking.

Mr. Skillings among other things in his communication says: "The Northern Baseball league will be a winner from a financial standpoint the coming season if the theories of the officers are realized, and at the same time the fans will have less to complain of than during the season of 1904. It has been definitely decided to have eight clubs in the league this year, Superior and Crookston having been dropped, and there are now but four in the league—Duluth, Grand Forks, Winnipeg and Fargo. This will make it necessary to receive four entirely new clubs, and seven or eight towns are clamoring to be let in. It is certain that Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two of the new ones to be represented, and then there are Breckenridge, Bismarck, Wahpeton, Fergus Falls and others from which to select the other two.

"The season will open May 30 and close Sept. 1.

"A meeting of the Northern Baseball league officials will be held at Fargo Feb. 18, to consider the applications of cities to enter teams for the season of 1905. The committee appointed at the meeting Jan. 28 to make certain changes in the rules and by-laws to sustain the Class D arrangement, will then be ready to report.

"Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two good towns to have in the league. Games of only local interest attracted as many as 2,400 people Sundays last season in Brainerd, and St. Cloud is as good a town as they make for legitimate sport of any kind. Less is known here of the advantages that the other towns under consideration have from the standpoint of baseball, but they all seem to be eager and promise satisfactory patronage.

This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquezone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquezone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquezone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquezone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell you of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Miss Rouse's Address.

Miss Rouse, Missionary of eleven years standing in Ku-Cheng, Central China, addressed a crowded house in the M. E. church last night. Her address gave a brief outline of the general work of the Christian churches in China and especially that of the M. E. church which for fifty-five years has been carrying forward evangelism in the Empire of that ancient people. Miss Rouse's special work at Ku-Cheng includes an orphanage, a day school, a private school for girls, Bible readers and Evangelists. It is situated in the Midway between Shang-Hi and Canton.

The address was very instructive and inspiring. When the speaker told of her experience during the Boxer massacre, hearts were moved and many eyes filled with tears. The immediate result of her work is the adding of the local auxiliary of the W. F. M. S. twenty-seven members. Miss Rouse is on a furlough on account of ill health, and while it is not yet certain as to whether she will ever be able to return to take up her work, she hopes to be able to return this fall. It is safe to say that the audience was thoroughly converted to the foresight and wisdom of this great work in foreign lands by the home churches. Miss Rouse will always be assured of a warm welcome and a large audience, if she ever, as we hope she may, visit us again. A liberal collection was given in aid of the society.

While she intended to remain a day or two the guest of Pastor Knowles, the special program of the Duluth branch and other matters made it imperative that she leave on the noon train for that point.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE SITUATION

Lay-Off Friday Night at Northern Pacific Shop Not so Disastrous After All, in

VIEW OF OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES

Men Now Employed in the Shops, About 700, Are Working Nine Hours a Day.

Many people in Brainerd, among them business men, have become very pessimistic regarding the N. P. shops in this city, and whenever there is a lay-off of men they usually jump at the conclusion that everything is going to wreck and ruin, and little by little other rumors are circulated until there is generally a feeling of unrestfulness. It is true that during the past month or two times have been slack in Brainerd, but the last lay-off on Friday night, when 100 men were let out, will, it is thought, be a good thing, not only for the men themselves, but for the city.

Naturally it is a bad thing to be out of a job and the 100 unfortunate men who were let out have the sympathy of the community. Many of these were old men who had worked at the shops for years, some of them as long as fifteen years, but from the view point of the company in the end the results will be a good thing. These men were working short hours and were making barely enough to subsist on. Now they can go where work will be more plentiful.

The direct good that has resulted from the lay-off is the fact that the men who are now working in all departments have been put on a nine hour a day schedule instead of eight hours as heretofore and they will work 6 days a week instead of five.

Before the lay-off it is estimated that there were about 800 men on the pay roll. These 800 men were working on an eight hour schedule five days a week. This made 40 hours to a man in the week, or a total of 32,000 hours a week for the whole force. Figuring that 100 men were laid off it still leaves 700 men at work. These men are working nine hours a day six days a week, or 54 hours to a man in the week, a total of 37,800 hours a week for the entire force as against 32,000 hours under the old regime. This is a net gain in hours of 5,800 a week, which makes a material difference. This will also mean that all the men now working will have larger checks and will be able to meet their obligations much easier.

While it is regretted that many of the old men are laid off, it can be readily seen that it will result in a direct benefit to those who are at work, if the company keeps up the schedule now in force, and there is every reason to believe that it will.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease that Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Irritable and Despondent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

Overwork the stomach, or subject it to the depressing influence of worry, care or constant excitement, and it gives out. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and, like an overdriven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach, and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lies heavy, ferments and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.

Mrs. James H. Titus, of 710, Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says:

"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just splendid. My stomach bothered me for twelve years—food digesting slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way today—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have and will continue to recommend them strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly acted like magic with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., N. Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., on every package.

EDITOR DISPATCH:—

I have just read communications to your paper signed A. K. G. and by Mr. Heron and others. I am not looking for trouble and if my financial interests had not been affected should not have "butted in" as one of the communications terms it.

Answering A. K. G.'s letter first. The writer has evidently given thought to the principles of unionism and the tone of his article is fair.

1. I am aware that there is little fault to be found with the shop unions at present, but there was a year or two ago.

2. I admit that my opinion was formed upon hearsay evidence, but I could give the name of a most prominent Brainerd man, whom you all know and respect, who has only the interest of the people at heart, who criticised bitterly two years ago the action of the shop want in reason from the railroad company, but they should not ask for little annoying things, which do not benefit the city. They should ask for the important things, and the most important is that the shops run full force all the time, and pay the best wages for good work. If you get that, never mind the little things.

In conclusion, I am glad that my efforts have been taken good naturedly (witness the poetry), and I hope you all realize that I am not trying to injure anybody or organization. I am only trying to help Brainerd, and whatever helps the shopmen helps Brainerd, and whatever helps Brainerd, helps me, even if there were not many men in the shops who have been good friends to me for years.

Theoretically, there is no reason why men banded together in unions should not help themselves, and their town to a greater degree than they could individually. Put your theories in practice. "One for all, all for one" is not enough; it should be followed by "all for the best".

Good Thing to Know.

The Scientific American says there are a good many rooms where the radiator is either too small or the steam pressure is too low to maintain a comfortable temperature in severe weather. If the tenant is enjoying the many advantages afforded by central station electric lighting service, the matter can easily be remedied. Take the fan that kept you cool all summer and set it where it can blow against a large part of the radiator's surface. Turn it on at low speed, or at high if necessary, and your cold room will soon be thoroughly warmed. The philosophy of the thing is that steam at a low pressure carries much less latent heat than steam at a high pressure, and therefore warms the radiator so poorly that only a slight draft of air rises around the pipes, and condensation is slow. With the fan in operation there is a forced draft against the radiator that conducts a great deal more heat away from iron, cooling it so that much more condensation of steam occurs inside it. The heat thus snatched from the reluctant radiator is held in the circulating atmosphere of the room, which is soon changed from cold to warm at a trifling cost for electric energy.

TEMPORARY LOCATION

L. W. Sherlund Has Secured Office Room in the Albert Angel Store on Laurel Street

L. Sherlund, the Laurel street plumber who burned out a few days ago has secured temporary quarters in the Albert Angel grocery store on Laurel street where he can be found by his many patrons. Mr. Sherlund states that he is ready to take care of all business now and wants all of his patrons to call. He wishes to thank the people of Brainerd for their past patronage and respectfully solicits future orders.

There is not the least doubt in my mind that if the citizens of Brainerd had asked that a few cars be built in Brainerd this winter, the cars would have been built. The N. P. Ry. Co. has always had a good hearted lot of officials, many of them residents of Brainerd at one time or another, and they would be willing enough to help the city as long as they were helping the railroad.

I think I may say that about two years ago, by simply calling a certain high official's attention to the fact that a proposed reduction in the Brainerd pay roll would be an injury to the city and the railroad the reduction was not made.

The signers of that letter did not know that I had written another letter to the business men about to form a commercial club, telling them of their delinquencies, just as I had told the shopmen theirs. I had also done what I could personally to get them work before writing letters to the newspapers, and think my efforts were not fruitless. The shopmen and business men working together, can get anything they

In the Northern Base Ball League Proposition But He Has Not Shown up Here

C. D. SKILLINGS ON QUESTION

He Gives it Out as a Certainty that Brainerd Will be One of the New Towns

There is still all kinds of talk in the newspapers about Brainerd and its connection with the Northern Base Ball league this year and C. D. Skillings, the sporting writer of Duluth, had a long communication in yesterday's Minneapolis Tribune touching on the matter. So far as known there has been no one here to interest the business men or fans in league base ball, but evidently someone has been getting busy and may be here shortly.

Of course Brainerd fans would be glad to have a league team but it is doubtful if enough encouragement would be given anyone, in view of past experiences, to warrant them coming in, if it is financial support from the city that they are seeking.

Mr. Skillings among other things in his communication says: "The Northern Baseball league will be a winner from a financial standpoint the coming season if the theories of the officers are realized, and at the same time the fans will have less to complain of than during the season of 1904. It has been definitely decided to have eight clubs in the league this year, Superior and Crookston having been dropped, and there are now but four in the league—Duluth, Grand Forks, Winnipeg and Fargo. This will make it necessary to receive four entirely new clubs, and seven or eight towns are clamoring to be let in. It is certain that Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two of the new ones to be represented, and then there are Breckenridge, Bismarck, Wahpeton, Fergus Falls and others from which to select the other two.

"The season will open May 30 and close Sept. 1.

"A meeting of the Northern Baseball league officials will be held at Fargo Feb. 18, to consider the applications of cities to enter teams for the season of 1905. The committee appointed at the meeting Jan. 28 to make certain changes in the rules and by-laws to sustain the Class D arrangement, will then be ready to report.

"Brainerd and St. Cloud will be two good towns to have in the league. Games of only local interest attracted as many as 2,400 people Sundays last season in Brainerd, and St. Cloud is as good a town as they make for legitimate sport of any kind. Less is known here of the advantages that the other towns under consideration have from the standpoint of baseball, but they all seem to be eager and promise satisfactory patronage.

Not Afraid of the Moose.

The following from the St. Croix, N. B., Courier has reference to the father of John Cochran, the Front street barber:

Charles Cochran, of Danforth, is the guest of his son, Charles, Jr., and is visiting friends in the St. Croix valley. Mr. Cochran is hale and hearty, having attained 80 years and six months, and is hauling logs this winter. He worked for H. F. Eaton about thirty years logging and working on logs on the river, and subsequently worked for Eaton Bros. about eleven years. He explored two townships for Messrs. Gates and Eaton and two for H. F. Eaton and could not be lost in the woods nor rolled off a log into the river. He is warmly received by his many friends. He was cruising recently in the woods and met a bull moose on the back road; when Mr. Cochran came near him he rose and his mane bristled up. Mr. Cochran stood with axe in hand ready for the combat. They gazed at each other for a few moments and the moose decided to abandon further contest and disappeared rapidly from view in the forest. Mr. Cochran said he felt considerably relieved as the animal was a large one and he felt he might be overcome in the struggle.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs. And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity; a worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

An attraction of interest to theatre-goers is the western comedy drama, "Our Pastor," in which Mr. Daniel Sully and his company will appear at the Brainerd opera house, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 8.

This is a story of Idaho, the scene being laid in a rough-and-ready cattle town where a census of good citizens and tough characters would show the latter in a large majority. Jim Carter, a wealthy ranchman who is the recognized boss of the town, is in love with his ward, Margaret Manning, a pretty girl many years his junior. The young lady is secretly engaged to a youthful mining engineer, Arnold Leslie, and when Carter learns this he proceeds to make the course of true love as rocky as possible. Father Daly, pastor of the struggling little Boom City church, intervenes and eventually succeeds in straightening out matters to the satisfaction of most of the parties concerned.

The role of Father Daly in "Our Pastor" gives Mr. Sully great opportunities for the display of that rich Celtic humor which is characteristic of his comedy methods. The seat sale will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at H. P. Dunn & Co's.

LONDON BIOSCOPE COMPANY.

A duel which was to have taken place at the Grande Route, Paris, has had a rather curious ending. The two antagonists, with their seconds, appeared and began to strip for the fray when a stranger bearing an oblong box, which he proceeded to unpack, came upon the scene. He then enacted a tripod on which he fixed a bioscope camera and awaited the development of events. The duelists, however, were so indignant that they forgot the cause of their trouble, embraced each other, recoiled themselves and left the field of battle arm in arm, while the disappointed bioscope man sadly repacked his apparatus and departed. Had the "stranger" referred to had been fortunate enough to secure a picture the duel would have been reproduced at the Brainerd opera house for the "stranger" was Mr. F. G. Bradford the representative of the London Bioscope Co., which opens a two nights' engagement at the opera house on Thursday, Feb. 9th and 10th.

This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables;

Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetative matter. Liquozone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquozone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell you of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquezone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

REVOLT SUPPRESSED

TROOPS OF THE ARGENTINE GOV.
ERNMENT BADLY DEFEAT
REBEL FORCES.

CAPITAL ENTIRELY TRANQUIL

INSURRECTION SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN MORE OF A MUTINY
THAN REBELLION.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 6.—Owing to the partial interruption of telegraphic and railway services precise information concerning the insurrectionary movement in the provinces is unobtainable, but the government evidently is in possession of favorable messages, which express confidence in the prompt suppression of the outbreak. The movement is now limited to the provinces of Rosario, Santa Fe, Mendoza, Cordoba and Southern Buenos Ayres and sections south between the Platte river and Bahla Blanca, where it is reported Colonel Momembelle, commanding the government forces, has inflicted a severe defeat on the rebels. President Quintana declares that he will not interfere between the law and revolutionary prisoners, of whom there are 300 already in the hands of the government.

More of a Mutiny Than a Revolt.

The capital is entirely tranquil and conditions are normal. Protest against the movement is general, and prices on the stock exchange have been fully maintained in the belief that the outbreak will be suppressed within a few days. The revolutionary leaders, Doctors Piro C. Molin, Camille Cretto and Hipolito Irikyen, are represented as being men of no political influence, but they are assisted by a portion of the military forces, which renders the insurrection more of a mutiny than of a revolution.

President Quintana was in consultation with members of the cabinet Sunday regarding the situation. It was agreed that energetic measures should be taken for the suppression of the revolt. General Winter, at the head of a large government force, is within six hours' march of Cordoba, and General Forthingham, who has an adequate number of troops, is within about ten miles of Mendoza.

Revolutionists Defeated.

The government has received news that Major Matoso had a fight at Villa Maria with a band of 200 revolutionists proceeding from Cordoba with the intention of attacking the arsenal at Rio Cuarto. Major Matoso turned back the revolutionists and arrested a number of them, who will be sent to Buenos Ayres for trial before the civil courts.

Mutinous troops from San Lorenzo have attacked Rosario without success. They were obliged to retire. General Bonavides, with reinforcements of 3,000 men, is near Rosario.

The governor of the province of Mendoza is said to be a prisoner in the hands of the insurgents.

In attacks on police stations Saturday morning several rioters were killed, about 30 were injured and some 250 arrested. Order has been completely restored and the city presents a normal aspect.

The revolution being practically crushed, the government has annulled the decree calling out the reserves.

THREE TRAINS WRECKED.

Several Persons Injured in Accidents on Rock Island Road.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 6.—Three Rock Island passenger train accidents were reported Sunday night. The California and Mexico fast mail from Chicago on the Rock Island went into the ditch two miles east of Cameron, Mo. Conductor Marvin and a number of passengers were hurt.

The Chicago limited, the fast Rock Island train for Chicago, with the private car of J. O. Crockett, the general superintendent, was wrecked two miles west of Winston, Mo. B. Bauman, Mr. Crockett's stenographer, and James Butler, the porter of the private car, were both badly injured. Mr. Crockett was not hurt.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific passenger train No. 6, eastbound, was wrecked two miles west of Lebanon, Kan. Running forty-five miles an hour, the engines left the track and the full train of eight cars followed. One car turned over. Twelve persons were slightly bruised.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

Secretary Shaw Looks for No Trouble on Wheat Drawback.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Secretary Shaw is confident that none of the difficulties which have been predicted in connection with the proposed allowance of a drawback on mixed wheat will be encountered by the treasury officers in carrying out the new regulations. He is perfectly satisfied that the new plan will be a success.

Cold in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 6.—Never before in the history of Atlanta has the ice king held such a grip on the city as he had Sunday. Traffic is completely at a standstill, the street car service closing down at nightfall. The entire electric light service is dead. It has been either sleeting or raining since Friday.

THIRTY MEN IN GREAT DANGER.

Narrowly Escape Death When Iceboat Sinks at Lewes, Del.

Lewes, Del., Feb. 6.—Thirty men narrowly escaped drowning Sunday in the icy waters of the Harbor of Refuge at the Delaware breakwater and after being rescued with the greatest difficulty by the crews of two tugs they were forced to make their way to shore afoot over the heavy ice floes with which the Delaware river and bay is blocked. The men whose lives were imperiled were Charles Jacobs and his crew of twenty-nine men of Philadelphia iceboat No. 2, which made its way down the river from Philadelphia in an effort to make a channel for vessels icebound at the breakwater.

The iceboat collided with the sunken barge Santiago, the masts and buoys of which had been carried away by the ice jam. The iceboat became wedged in the mass of ice and was carried hither and thither by the motion of the pack. While drifting in this manner the iceboat struck the barge and a large hole was stove in her hull. Immediately the boat began to fill with water and signals of distress were hoisted and they were answered by the tugs Teaser and Boxer. After a difficult and dangerous trip the tug boats drew near enough to throw a line to the sinking iceboat and one by one the crew were hauled aboard the rescuing tugs. The ice jam prevented the tugs from docking and the crew of the iceboat, stiff from exposure, and nearly exhausted, managed to complete a perilous journey afoot across the ice fields to shore.

Some of the men saved a few of their belongings. The iceboat sank soon after the crew was taken off.

Navigation is almost at a standstill on the Delaware because of the ice, which is jamming the stream from Trenton, N. J., to the breakwater and extends nearly ten miles out to sea.

There is a large fleet of vessels of all kinds at the breakwater unable to make any headway against the jam.

Heavy Loss From Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 6.—Fire which broke out at midnight Saturday night and fanned by a strong east wind threatened to destroy the business district of Birmingham, was gotten under control shortly before 5 a. m. The loss is estimated at $240,000, covered by insurance.

Heavy Snow in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Feb. 6.—A snowstorm which began here Saturday night continued throughout Southwestern Wisconsin all day Sunday and will likely continue Monday. The ground is covered by about eight inches in Milwaukee. The snow is light and drifting badly in some places.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Telephone and telegraph service over a wide area of the South was almost completely crippled by heavy sleet Sunday.

The New England coast south of Cape Cod was Sunday night tight in the grip of one of the most extensive ice embargoes of recent winters.

Dr. James A. Freer, a well known physician and surgeon of Washington, aged forty-five years, was found dead Sunday at a country inn near Washington where he had gone for the night.

Christopher Smyth, or "Sanrock," nineteen years old, is in jail in New York city charged with being the perpetrator of many startling robberies in private residences within the past few weeks.

A proclamation will be promulgated Monday from various state capitals, under the auspices of the National Grange and others, requesting that Washington's birthday be observed as "farm, home and factory day."

PORT ARTHUR'S CAPTOR

Personality and Home Life of General Nogai.

CLOSE STUDENT OF WAR SUBJECTS

Japanese Military Commander Not a Looter, but a Man of Strong Character and Domestic Attributes. Great Lover of Horses—Incidents of His Career on the Battlefield. Parting With His Sons.

It was on the afternoon of Oct. 31, 1904, that I made my visit to the home of our devilish officer, General Nogai, who took on his shoulders the full burden of the siege of Port Arthur and whose commands, issued by the virtue of our august emperor, even then were drowning the thundering voices of the cannon and causing his soldiers to march, brave as full grown lions, upon the very bayonets of the enemy, says H. Yeiga, the Tokyo correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch.

General Nogai's home stands near Aoyama park, Tokyo, on the left hand side. It is a bamboo hedged house, something unique in Japan, and at the gate are two beautiful columns of stone, each with the name Nogai Kiten on it. Nogai translated means tree, and in front of the general's house stands a great old pine tree all alone, which the day I was there seemed to be beckoning to the wind with its green leaves and to be repeating the harsh voice of its owner as he gave commands to the army.

On the right hand side of the beautiful gate and a little way back there stands a small brick built stable, for General Nogai has ever been a famous lover of horses, and his one recreation since he became a warrior has been riding. Unlike many of our people, he is a fine horseman and sits his saddle with the cleverness of the best riders I ever saw in Central park when I lived in New York. Until he went to Manchuria he always kept four or five chargers in his stable. He never failed to ride daily nor to caress even those horses that remained behind, anxiously pawing for the honor of carrying their distinguished general swiftly and safely over the ground. Mr. Nogai is economical by nature and discipline, but when he resigned from the army some time after the war with China he begged that he be permitted to take his army horses home with him and feed them, saying that the government then would not have to spend money on them. That was the excuse he gave, but all his friends knew he made the offer because he could not bear to be separated from his beloved chargers.

So you know why he has built a magnificent European stable, which is kept very clean and sweet, and takes such pride in giving his horses fine care. After you pass the stable you walk through a finely kept garden, showing numerous cherry trees, along a neat path to the left, and soon you come upon the general's home. It, too, is of brick, built in European style, and, like the stable, shows that Mr. Nogai is possessed of a progressive mind and believes that he and his family should have the best comforts that he can give without being at all extravagant.

Reaching the home, I walked up the broad white stone steps, which had just been scrubbed, pressed the electric button and was politely introduced into a most beautiful parlor. There was a round teak table in the center, with comfortable leather seated chairs placed artistically about, and above the table were suspended electric lights. On the front wall and almost covering it was a great map of Asiatic Russia and Manchuria. Hanging by the stove were the imperial decorations in frames, while on the shelves were stuffed birds, photographs of relatives and friends and cannon balls. Everywhere were bookcases, all filled with numerous military books and all looking as if they had been read over and over until their contents were known by heart, as my American friends would say. The floor was hidden by beautiful rugs, bear and tiger skins, while in the entrance were four ancient armor cases, a gift saddle, spears of all sorts covering the walls, and on the hatrack the general's red hats and other military hats, with gold bands, and several swords.

I was received by the hitsuji (caretaker), an old man of about fifty years. After the ordinary salutations and in reply to my questions he politely informed me that the general's family consisted of his wife, Shidzo, forty-five years; Shouten, twenty-six years, first son, and Hoten, twenty-four years, second son. The elder son had graduated from the military school two years before, had joined the Second army and had ended with great honor and valor at Nanshan, where he was promoted to a lieutenant after death and decorated. The second son graduated December of last year, joined the cavalry and went to the front with his brother. The general departed soon after, and now the wife was at home with four servants.

So much the caretaker told me. Soon I learned that when Shouten was about to leave home in March he turned to his father and said: "I am glad I am going to the front. There is no hope of my coming back, and I wish mother to take the best care of herself. If I die please praise my deeds. You no doubt will also go to the front, but we may fight in different places, so I will tell you goodbye now. Father, shall we make a race for the good name we may secure on the battlefield?"

But before the father could answer Hoten spoke up enthusiastically: "Let me go into the race also." The general smiled and said: "Well, it is well. The race of us three will be very interesting. We shall try to win the prize."

Some time later, when he, too, was summoned to fight for the emperor, the general said:

"In my house all three of us are soldiers. It may be possible that all three of us will die. But I do not want a funeral from my house until the war is ended. Then if all three of us are dead we shall have one funeral."

That is why there have been no ancestral rites performed yet for the two sons killed fighting for the glory and virtue of our august emperor.

When at the front General Nogai makes even the devils cry, but I learned that in his home his commands are not even heeded by the horses or dogs. He is very quiet and displays the same quality of sincerity in private that has ever marked him in public, and also perseverance and fortitude, two virtues that he possesses in great measure. There was never a moment when he was at home that he was not devoting his time to the study of war. He read constantly, with the war books piled about him. He was ever prepared for war, and every inch of him was for war when it came.

Politely asking that I be given some anecdotes of the general while on the battlefield, Mrs. Nogai very graciously consented.

During the China-Japan war General Nogai, after the capture of Kinchau, visited a field hospital, carrying two beautiful Chinese overcoats on his arm whose cost was many yens.

"These overcoats," he said to the surgeon in charge, "were given to me by Major General Yamaji, my superior, and I now give them to the hospital. I do not need them, and I want them used for the patients."

Then the general wrote in red ink on the coats, "Presented by Major General Yamaji to me and then presented by me for the use of the patients of this hospital."

"Even his kind words were warm clothing for the soldiers," said the surgeon after Mr. Nogai had gone. It was while taking Kinchau that Mr. Nogai showed great coolness under fire. On Feb. 11, ten years ago, the great Ouchan fort was stormed. The enemy fired down from a great height on our soldiers, and it was difficult to march, but notwithstanding the general coolly led a company onward and took up a position just below the fortress, though the bullets were flying as thick as hail. Toward evening Mr. Nogai exposed himself to the enemy while making an observation, when suddenly a cannon ball struck a few feet from him, an explosion followed, and he was hid from sight. His anxious soldiers expected to find him killed or wounded, but when the smoke cleared away he was still doing his duty as if nothing had happened, and there was no trace of worry on his stern face.

Later on our victorious army took Tallienwan, and while the soldiers were energetically repairing the forts and officers were planning and directing the work and engaged in noisy talk General Nogai stood erect and, looking toward the eastern skies with respect and shutting his eyes, cried with a flood of tears, still showing his gratitude for the merit and greatness of the emperor whose virtue had made victory possible. Seeing the general so occupied, the noisy conference tables became serene, and all the officers cried also, when suddenly the general shouted in a great voice for the banal of the emperor and led in the three cheers that followed.

After the China war the general went to Formosa as joint commander with Governor General Kabayama and aided in bringing about the pacification of the natives. At the celebration following pacification, which was held in the palace, one of the generals, holding a beautiful and precious goblet in his hands, asked General Nogai: "Will you, too, take some souvenir to Japan?"

"What souvenir?" General Nogai asked. The general replied: "Why do you ask what souvenir? Why don't you take something—this goblet, for example? Is it not beautiful?" General Nogai flamed with anger. He cried, "I did not come here to steal," and, picking up an expensive dish, he broke it to pieces.

There was a pause. Then Governor General Kabayama laughingly turned to the company. "Nogai is really a hero," he said.

The hour having come for my departure, I most politely bade all goodbye, and as I walked down the neatly kept path through the beautiful gardens and past the neat brick stable to the entrance I realized that our great general is as great at home as on the battlefield.

Fire Alarms by Wireless.

It may be that wireless will enter almost every sphere of human activity, says a writer in the World's Work. In railroad there will be small excuse for collisions when an engineer can be overtaken between stations or when he can hear from a fellow engineer on the same track long before the fatal curve is reached. Already London is trying a wireless fire alarm system. Perhaps the device can even be made automatic by a thermostatically controlled attachment.

Effect of Japan's Victories on India.

The testimony of men on the ground is that even India has been aroused by Japan's recent victories in the far east, says the Boston Transcript, and that what no single voice by way of reproof or exhortation to the Hindus could do has been done by Togo's fleet and Nogai's and Oyama's armies.

Less Smoking by Oriental Women.

Smoking is an innovation in western female circles, says Mary Cavanaugh in Rosary Magazine, but a fast dying custom among orientals.

REVOLT SUPPRESSED

TROOPS OF THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT BADLY DEFEAT
REBEL FORCES.

CAPITAL ENTIRELY TRANQUIL

INSURRECTION SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN MORE OF A MUTINY
THAN REBELLION.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 6.—Owing to the partial interruption of telegraphic and railway services precise information concerning the insurrectionary movement in the provinces is unobtainable, but the government evidently is in possession of favorable messages, which express confidence in the prompt suppression of the outbreak. The movement is now limited to the provinces of Rosario, Santa Fe, Mendoza, Cordoba and Southern Buenos Ayres and sections south between the Platte river and Bahia Blanca, where it is reported Colonel Momembelle, commanding the government forces, has inflicted a severe defeat on the rebels.

President Quintana declares that he will not interfere between the law and revolutionary prisoners, of whom there are 300 already in the hands of the government.

More of a Mutiny Than a Revolt.

The capital is entirely tranquil and conditions are normal. Protest against the movement is general, and prices on the stock exchange have been fully maintained in the belief that the outbreak will be suppressed within a few days. The revolutionary leaders, Doctors Piro C. Molin, Camille Cretto and Hipolito Irigoyen, are represented as being men of no political influence, but they are assisted by a portion of the military forces, which renders the insurrection more of a mutiny than of a revolution.

President Quintana was in consultation with members of the cabinet Sunday regarding the situation. It was agreed that energetic measures should be taken for the suppression of the revolt. General Winter, at the head of a large government force, is within six hours' march of Cordoba, and General Potheringham, who has an adequate number of troops, is within about ten miles of Mendoza.

Revolutionists Defeated.

The government has received news that Major Matoso had a fight at Villa Maria with a band of 200 revolutionists proceeding from Cordoba with the intention of attacking the arsenal at Rio Cuarto. Major Matoso turned back the revolutionists and arrested a number of them, who will be sent to Buenos Ayres for trial before the civil courts.

Mutinous troops from San Lorenzo have attacked Rosario without success. They were obliged to retire. General Bonavides, with reinforcements of 3,000 men, is near Rosario.

The governor of the province of Mendoza is said to be a prisoner in the hands of the insurgents.

In attacks on police stations Saturday morning several rioters were killed, about 30 were injured and some 250 arrested. Order has been completely restored and the city presents a normal aspect.

The revolution being practically crushed, the government has annulled the decree calling out the reserves.

THREE TRAINS WRECKED.

Several Persons Injured in Accidents on Rock Island Road.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 6.—Three Rock Island passenger train accidents were reported Sunday night. The California and Mexico fast mail from Chicago on the Rock Island went into the ditch two miles east of Cameron, Mo. Conductor Marvin and a number of passengers were hurt.

The Chicago limited, the fast Rock Island train for Chicago, with the private car of J. O. Crockett, the general superintendent, was wrecked two miles west of Winston, Mo. B. Bauman, Mr. Crockett's stenographer, and James Butler, the porter of the private car, were both badly injured. Mr. Crockett was not hurt.

Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific passenger train No. 6, eastbound, was wrecked two miles west of Lebanon, Kan. Running forty-five miles an hour, the engines left the track and the full train of eight cars followed. One car turned over. Twelve persons were slightly bruised.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

Secretary Shaw Looks for No Trouble on Wheat Drawback.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Secretary Shaw is confident that none of the difficulties which have been predicted in connection with the proposed allowance of a drawback on mixed wheat will be encountered by the treasury officers in carrying out the new regulations. He is perfectly satisfied that the new plan will be a success.

Cold in Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 6.—Never before in the history of Atlanta has the ice king held such a grip on the city as he had Sunday. Traffic is completely at a standstill, the street car service closing down at nightfall. The entire electric light service is dead. It has been either sleeting or raining since Friday.

THIRTY MEN IN GREAT DANGER.

Narrowly Escape Death When Iceboat Sinks at Lewes, Del.

Lewes, Del., Feb. 6.—Thirty men narrowly escaped drowning Sunday in the icy waters of the Harbor of Refuge at the Delaware breakwater and after being rescued with the greatest difficulty by the crews of two tugs they were forced to make their way to shore afoot over the heavy ice floes with which the Delaware river and bay is blocked. The men whose lives were imperiled were Charles Jacobs and his crew of twenty-nine men of Philadelphia iceboat No. 2, which made its way down the river from Philadelphia in an effort to make a channel for vessels icebound at the breakwater.

The iceboat collided with the sunken barge Santiago, the masts and buoys of which had been carried away by the ice jam. The iceboat became wedged in the mass of ice and was carried hither and thither by the motion of the pack. While drifting in this manner the iceboat struck the barge and a large hole was stove in her hull. Immediately the boat began to fill with water and signals of distress were hoisted and they were answered by the tugs Teaser and Boxer. After a difficult and dangerous trip the tug boats drew near enough to throw a line to the sinking iceboat and one by one the crew were hauled aboard the rescuing tugs. The ice jam prevented the tugs from docking and the crew of the iceboat, stiff from exposure, and nearly exhausted, managed to complete a perilous journey afoot across the ice fields to shore.

Some of the men saved a few of their belongings. The iceboat sank soon after the crew was taken off.

Navigation is almost at a standstill on the Delaware because of the ice, which is jamming the stream from Trenton, N. J., to the breakwater and extends nearly ten miles out to sea. There is a large fleet of vessels of all kinds at the breakwater unable to make any headway against the jam.

Heavy Loss From Fire.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 6.—Fire which broke out at midnight Saturday night and fanned by a strong east wind threatened to destroy the business district of Birmingham, was gotten under control shortly before 5 a. m. The loss is estimated at $240,000, covered by insurance.

Heavy Snow in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Feb. 6.—A snowstorm which began here Saturday night continued throughout Southwestern Wisconsin all day Sunday and will likely continue Monday. The ground is covered by about eight inches in Milwaukee. The snow is light and drifting badly in some places.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Telephone and telegraph service over a wide area of the South was almost completely crippled by heavy sleet Sunday.

The New England coast south of Cape Cod was Sunday night tight in the grip of one of the most extensive ice embargoes of recent winters.

Dr. James A. Freer, a well known physician and surgeon of Washington, aged forty-five years, was found dead Sunday at a country inn near Washington where he had gone for the night.

Christopher Smyth, or "Sanrock," nineteen years old, is in jail in New York city charged with being the perpetrator of many startling robberies in private residences within the past few weeks.

A proclamation will be promulgated Monday from various state capitals, under the auspices of the National Grange and others, requesting that Washington's birthday be observed as "farm, home and factory day."

PORT ARTHUR'S CAPTOR

Personality and Home Life of General Nogi.

CLOSE STUDENT OF WAR SUBJECTS

Japanese Military Commander Not a Looter, but a Man of Strong Character and Domestic Attributes. Great Lover of Horses—Incidents of His Career on the Battlefield. Parting With His Sons.

It was on the afternoon of Oct. 31, 1904, that I made my visit to the home of our devilish officer, General Nogi, who took on his shoulders the full burden of the siege of Port Arthur and whose commands, issued by the virtue of our august emperor, even then were drowning the thundering voices of the cannon and causing his soldiers to march, brave as full grown lions, upon the very bayonets of the enemy, says H. Yeiga, the Tokyo correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

General Nogi's home stands near Aoyama park, Tokyo, on the left hand side. It is a bamboo hedged house, something unique in Japan, and at the gate are two beautiful columns of stone, each with the name Nogi Kiten on it. Nogi translated means tree, and in front of the general's house stands a great old pine tree all alone, which the day I was there seemed to be beckoning to the wind with its green leaves and to be repeating the harsh voice of its owner as he gave commands to the army.

On the right hand side of the beautiful gate and a little way back there stands a small brick built stable, for General Nogi has ever been a famous lover of horses, and his one recreation since he became a warrior has been riding. Unlike many of our people, he is a fine horseman and sits his saddle with the cleverness of the best riders I ever saw in Central park when I lived in New York. Until he went to Manchuria he always kept four or five chargers in his stable. He never failed to ride daily nor to caress even those horses that remained behind, anxiously pawing for the honor of carrying their distinguished general swiftly and safely over the ground. Mr. Nogi is economical by nature and discipline, but when he resigned from the army some time after the war with China he begged that he be permitted to take his army horses home with him and feed them, saying that the government then would not have to spend money on them. That was the excuse he gave, but all his friends knew he made the offer because he could not bear to be separated from his beloved chargers. So you know why he has built a magnificent European stable, which is kept very clean and sweet, and takes such pride in giving his horses fine care.

After you pass the stable you walk through a finely kept garden, showing numerous cherry trees, along a neat path to the left, and soon you come upon the general's home. It, too, is of brick, built in European style, and, like the stable, shows that Mr. Nogi is possessed of a progressive mind and believes that he and his family should have the best comforts that he can give without being at all extravagant.

Reaching the home, I walked up the broad white stone steps, which had just been scrubbed, pressed the electric button and was politely introduced into a most beautiful parlor. There was a round teak table in the center, with comfortable leather seated chairs placed artistically about, and above the table were suspended electric lights. On the front wall and almost covering it was a great map of Asiatic Russia and Manchuria. Hanging by the stove were the imperial decorations in frames, while on the shelves were stuffed birds, photographs of relatives and friends and cannon balls. Everywhere were bookcases, all filled with numerous military books and all looking as if they had been read over and over until their contents were known by heart, as my American friends would say. The floor was hidden by beautiful rugs, bear and tiger skins, while in the entrance were four ancient armor cases, a gift saddle, spears of all sorts covering the walls, and on the hatrack the general's red hats and other military hats, with gold bands, and several swords.

I was received by the hitsuji (caretaker), an old man of about fifty years. After the ordinary salutations and in reply to my questions he politely informed me that the general's family consisted of his wife, Shizuo, forty-five years; Shouten, twenty-six years, first son, and Hosen, twenty-four years, second son. The elder son had graduated from the military school two years before, had joined the Second army and had ended with great honor and valor at Nanshan, where he was promoted to a lieutenant after death and decorated. The second son graduated December of last year, joined the cavalry and went to the front with his brother. The general departed soon after, and now the wife was at home with four servants.

So much the caretaker told me. Soon I learned that when Shouten was about to leave home in March he turned to his father and said: "I am glad I am going to the front. There is no hope of my coming back, and I wish mother to take the best care of herself. If I die please praise my deeds. You no doubt will also go to the front, but we may fight in different places, so I will tell you goodbye now. Father, shall we make a race for the good name we may secure on the battlefield?" But before the father could answer Hosen spoke up enthusiastically: "Let me go into the race also." The general smiled and said: "Well, it is well. The race of us three will be very interesting. We shall try to win the prize."

Some time later, when he, too, was summoned to fight for the emperor, the general said:

"In my house all three of us are soldiers. It may be possible that all three of us will die. But I do not want a funeral from my house until the war is ended. Then if all three of us are dead we shall have one funeral."

That is why there have been no ancestral rites performed yet for the two sons killed fighting for the glory and virtue of our august emperor.

When at the front General Nogi makes even the devils cry, but I learned that in his home his commands are not even heeded by the horses or dogs. He is very quiet and displays the same quality of sincerity in private that has ever marked him in public, and also perseverance and fortitude, two virtues that he possesses in great measure. There was never a moment when he was at home that he was not devoting his time to the study of war. He read constantly, with the war books piled about him. He was ever prepared for war, and every inch of him was for war when it came.

Politely asking that I be given some anecdotes of the general while on the battlefield, Mrs. Nogi very graciously consented.

During the China-Japan war General Nogi, after the capture of Kinchau, visited a field hospital, carrying two beautiful Chinese overcoats on his arm whose cost was many yens.

"These overcoats," he said to the surgeon in charge, "were given to me by Major General Yamaji, my superior, and I now give them to the hospital. I do not need them, and I want them used for the patients."

Then the general wrote in red ink on the coats, "Presented by Major General Yamaji to me and then presented by me for the use of the patients of this hospital."

"Even his kind words were warm clothing for the soldiers," said the surgeon after Mr. Nogi had gone.

It was while taking Kinchau that Mr. Nogi showed great coolness under fire. On Feb. 11, ten years ago, the great Ouchausan fort was stormed. The enemy fired down from a great height on our soldiers, and it was difficult to march, but notwithstanding the general coolly led a company onward and took up a position just below the fortress, though the bullets were flying as thick as hail. Toward evening Mr. Nogi exposed himself to the enemy while making an observation, when suddenly a cannon ball struck a few feet from him, an explosion followed, and he was hid from sight. His anxious soldiers expected to find him killed or wounded, but when the smoke cleared away he was still doing his duty as if nothing had happened, and there was no trace of worry on his stern face.

Later on our victorious army took Tallienwan, and while the soldiers were energetically repairing the forts and officers were planning and directing the work and engaged in noisy talk General Nogi stood erect and, looking toward the eastern skies with respect and shutting his eyes, cried with a flood of tears, thus showing his gratitude for the merit and greatness of the emperor whose virtue had made victory possible. Seeing the general so occupied, the noisy conference tables became serene, and all the officers cried also, when suddenly the general shouted in a great voice for the banzai of the emperor and led in the three cheers that followed.

After the China war the general went to Formosa as joint commander with Governor General Kabayama and aided in bringing about the pacification of the natives. At the celebration following pacification, which was held in the palace, one of the generals, holding a beautiful and precious goblet in his hands, asked General Nogi:

"Will you, too, take some souvenir to Japan?"

"What souvenir?" General Nogi asked.

The general replied: "Why do you ask what souvenir? Why don't you take something—this goblet, for example? Is it not beautiful?"

General Nogi flamed with anger. He cried, "I did not come here to steal," and, picking up an expensive dish, he broke it to pieces.

There was a pause. Then Governor General Kabayama laughingly turned to the company.

"Nogi is really a hero," he said.

The hour having come for my departure, I most politely bade all goodbye, and as I walked down the neatly kept path through the beautiful gardens and past the neat brick stable to the entrance I realized that our great general is as great at home as on the battlefield.

Fire Alarms by Wireless.

It may be that wireless will enter almost every sphere of human activity, says a writer in the World's Work. In railroading there will be small excuse for collisions when an engineer can be overtaken between stations or when he can hear from a fellow engineer on the same track long before the fatal curve is reached. Already London is trying a wireless fire alarm system. Perhaps the device can even be made automatic by a thermostatically controlled attachment.

Effect of Japan's Victories on India.

The testimony of men on the ground is that even India has been aroused by Japan's recent victories in the far east, says the Boston Transcript, and that what no single voice by way of reproof or exhortation to the Hindus could do has been done by Togo's fleet and Nogi's and Oyama's armies.

Less Smoking by Oriental Women.

Smoking is an innovation in western female circles, says Mary Cavanaugh in Rosary Magazine, but a fast dying custom among orientals.

Telephone and telegraph service over a wide area of the South was almost completely crippled by heavy sleet Sunday.

The New England coast south of Cape Cod was Sunday night tight in the grip of one of the most extensive ice embargoes of recent winters.

Dr. James A. Freer, a well known physician and surgeon of Washington, aged forty-five years, was found dead Sunday at a country inn near Washington where he had gone for the night.

Christopher Smyth, or "Sanrock," nineteen years old, is in jail in New York city charged with being the perpetrator of many startling robberies in private residences within the past few weeks.

A proclamation will be promulgated Monday from various state capitals, under the auspices of the National Grange and others, requesting that Washington's birthday be observed as "farm, home and factory day."

PORT ARTHUR'S CAPTOR

Personality and Home Life of General Nogi.

CLOSE STUDENT OF WAR SUBJECTS

Japanese Military Commander Not a Looter, but a Man of Strong Character and Domestic Attributes. Great Lover of Horses—Incidents of His Career on the Battlefield. Parting With His Sons.

It was on the afternoon of Oct. 31, 1904, that I made my visit to the home of our devilish officer, General Nogi, who took on his shoulders the full burden of the siege of Port Arthur and whose commands, issued by the virtue of our august emperor, even then were drowning the thundering voices of the cannon and causing his soldiers to march, brave as full grown lions, upon the very bayonets of the enemy, says H. Yeiga, the Tokyo correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

General Nogi's home stands near Aoyama park, Tokyo, on the left hand side. It is a bamboo hedged house, something unique in Japan, and at the gate are two beautiful columns of stone, each with the name Nogi Kiten on it. Nogi translated means tree, and in front of the general's house stands a great old pine tree all alone, which the day I was there seemed to be beckoning to the wind with its green leaves and to be repeating the harsh voice of its owner as he gave commands to the army.

On the right hand side of the beautiful gate and a little way back there stands a small brick built stable, for General Nogi has ever been a famous lover of horses, and his one recreation since he became a warrior has been riding. Unlike many of our people, he is a fine horseman and sits his saddle with the cleverness of the best riders I ever saw in Central park when I lived in New York. Until he went to Manchuria he always kept four or five chargers in his stable. He never failed to ride daily nor to caress even those horses that remained behind, anxiously pawing for the honor of carrying their distinguished general swiftly and safely over the ground. Mr. Nogi is economical by nature and discipline, but when he resigned from the army some time after the war with China he begged that he be permitted to take his army horses home with him and feed them, saying that the government then would not have to spend money on them. That was the excuse he gave, but all his friends knew he made the offer because he could not bear to be separated from his beloved chargers. So you know why he has built a magnificent European stable, which is kept very clean and sweet, and takes such pride in giving his horses fine care.

After you pass the stable you walk through a finely kept garden, showing numerous cherry trees, along a neat path to the left, and soon you come upon the general's home. It, too, is of brick, built in European style, and, like the stable, shows that Mr. Nogi is possessed of a progressive mind and believes that he and his family should have the best comforts that he can give without being at all extravagant.

Reaching the home, I walked up the broad white stone steps, which had just been scrubbed, pressed the electric button and was politely introduced into a most beautiful parlor. There was a round teak table in the center, with comfortable leather seated chairs placed artistically about, and above the table were suspended electric lights. On the front wall and almost covering it was a great map of Asiatic Russia and Manchuria. Hanging by the stove were the imperial decorations in frames, while on the shelves were stuffed birds, photographs of relatives and friends and cannon balls. Everywhere were bookcases, all filled with numerous military books and all looking as if they had been read over and over until their contents were known by heart, as my American friends would say. The floor was hidden by beautiful rugs, bear and tiger skins, while in the entrance were four ancient armor cases, a gift saddle, spears of all sorts covering the walls, and on the hatrack the general's red hats and other military hats, with gold bands, and several swords.

I was received by the hitsuji (caretaker), an old man of about fifty years. After the ordinary salutations and in reply to my questions he politely informed me that the general's family consisted of his wife, Shidzo, forty-five years; Shouten, twenty-six years, first son, and Hoten, twenty-four years, second son. The elder son had graduated from the military school two years before, had joined the Second army and had ended with great honor and valor at Nanshan, where he was promoted to a lieutenant after death and decorated. The second son graduated December of last year, joined the cavalry and went to the front with his brother. The general departed soon after, and now the wife was at home with four servants.

So much the caretaker told me. Soon I learned that when Shouten was about to leave home in March he turned to his father and said:

"I am glad I am going to the front. There is no hope of my coming back, and I wish mother to take the best care of herself. If I die please praise my deeds. You no doubt will also go to the front, but we may fight in different places, so I will tell you goodbye now. Father, shall we make a race for the good name we may secure on the battlefield?"

But before the father could answer Hoten spoke up enthusiastically:

"Let me go into the race also."

The general smiled and said:

"Well, it is well. The race of us

three will be very interesting. We shall try to win the prize."

Some time later, when he, too, was summoned to fight for the emperor, the general said:

"In my house all three of us are soldiers. It may be possible that all three of us will die. But I do not want a funeral from my house until the war is ended. Then if all three of us are dead we shall have one funeral."

That is why there have been no ancestral rites performed yet for the two sons killed fighting for the glory and virtue of our august emperor.

When at the front General Nogi makes even the devils cry, but I learned that in his home his commands are not even heeded by the horses or dogs. He is very quiet and displays the same quality of sincerity in private that has ever marked him in public, and also perseverance and fortitude, two virtues that he possesses in great measure. There was never a moment when he was at home that he was not devoting his time to the study of war. He read constantly, with the war books piled about him. He was ever prepared for war, and every inch of him was for war when it came.

Politely asking that I be given some anecdotes of the general while on the battlefield, Mrs. Nogi very graciously consented.

During the China-Japan war General Nogi, after the capture of Kinchau, visited a field hospital, carrying two beautiful Chinese overcoats on his arm whose cost was many yens.

"These overcoats," he said to the surgeon in charge, "were given to me by Major General Yamaji, my superior, and I now give them to the hospital. I do not need them, and I want them used for the patients."

Then the general wrote in red ink on the coats, "Presented by Major General Yamaji to me and then presented by me for the use of the patients of this hospital."

"Even his kind words were warm clothing for the soldiers," said the surgeon after Mr. Nogi had gone.

It was while taking Kinchau that Mr. Nogi showed great coolness under fire. On Feb. 11, ten years ago, the great Ouchausan fort was stormed. The enemy fired down from a great height on our soldiers, and it was difficult to march, but notwithstanding the general coolly led a company onward and took up a position just below the fortresses, though the bullets were flying as thick as hail. Toward evening Mr. Nogi exposed himself to the enemy while making an observation, when suddenly a cannon ball struck a few feet from him, an explosion followed, and he was hid from sight. His anxious soldiers expected to find him killed or wounded, but when the smoke cleared away he was still doing his duty as if nothing had happened, and there was no trace of worry on his stern face.

Later on our victorious army took Taitenwan, and while the soldiers were energetically repairing the forts and officers were planning and directing the work and engaged in noisy talk General Nogi stood erect and, looking toward the eastern skies with respect and shutting his eyes, cried with a flood of tears, thus showing his gratitude for the merit and greatness of the emperor whose virtue had made victory possible. Seeing the general so occupied, the noisy conference tables became serene, and all the officers cried also, when suddenly the general shouted in a great voice for the banal of the emperor and led in the three cheers that followed.

After the China war the general went to Formosa as joint commander with Governor General Kabayama and aided in bringing about the pacification of the natives. At the celebration following pacification, which was held in the palace, one of the generals, holding a beautiful and precious goblet in his hands, asked General Nogi:

"Will you, too, take some souvenir to Japan?"

"What souvenir?" General Nogi asked.

The general replied: "Why do you ask what souvenir? Why don't you take something—this goblet, for example? Is it not beautiful?"

General Nogi flamed with anger. He cried, "I did not come here to steal," and, picking up an expensive dish, he broke it to pieces.

There was a pause. Then Governor General Kabayama laughingly turned to the company.

"Nogi is really a hero," he said.

The hour having come for my departure, I most politely bade all goodbye, and as I walked down the neatly kept path through the beautiful gardens and past the neat brick stable to the entrance I realized that our great general is as great at home as on the battlefield.

Fire Alarms by Wireless.

It may be that wireless will enter almost every sphere of human activity, says a writer in the World's Work. In railroadings there will be small excuse for collisions when an engineer can be overtaken between stations or when he can hear from a fellow engineer on the same track long before the fatal curve is reached. Already London is trying a wireless fire alarm system. Perhaps the device can even be made automatic by a thermostatically controlled attachment.

Effect of Japan's Victories on India.

The testimony of men on the ground is that even India has been aroused by Japan's recent victories in the far east, says the Boston Transcript, and that what no single voice by way of reproof or exhortation to the Hindoos could do has been done by Togo's fleet and Nogi's and Oyama's armies.

Less Smoking by Oriental Women.

Smoking is an innovation in western female circles, says Mary Cavanaugh in Rosary Magazine, but a fast dying custom among orientals.
